$190 Billion U.S. Budget Expected

Rise Due to Domestic, War Costs

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spending in the new-style budget now being prepared for submission to Congress late this month will reportedly reach or exceed $190 billion. Indications are there will be increased spending for both the Vietnam war and domestic programs.

An official in a position to know said the spending figure will definitely remain below $200 billion for the fiscal year which begins next July 1 under the unified budget concept to be presented to Congress for the first time this month.

If the same system had been in use last January a spending program of $175.5 billion would have been presented to Congress for the current fiscal year.

Already on Books

The new budget format will include spending not only in the more familiar administrative budget but also spending under the huge government-operated trust funds such as Social Security highways and unemployment compensation.

The administration is attributing the increased spending figure planned for next year's budget to higher costs of programs already on the books such as welfare, medicare payments to states and government pay raises as well as Vietnam war costs.

Over-all defense spending is expected to total roughly $73 billion during the current fiscal year and although no figures for next year have been revealed it's expected to rise another $4 billion—with the increase ticketed for the Vietnam war.

Not Comparable

Spending in previous budgets is not exactly comparable to the $190 billion range of spending now contemplated since the administration decided to incorporate in the new budget the recommendations of a special presidential commission created one year ago.

For comparative purposes, however, the source said spending under the old-style administrative budget would range between $145 billion and $150 billion if that system were still in use.

Administrative budget spending is now contemplated since the administration decided to incorporate in the new budget the recommendations of a special presidential commission created one year ago.

Killed in Action

OSHKOSH (AP) — The Defense Department reported Monday that Army Sgt. James J. Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lind, Oshkosh, was killed in recent action in Vietnam.

He was watching television with his children when he saw smoke flowing under the door of his second-floor apartment. Minutes later the building was engulfed in flames, he said.

Schultze Resigns as LBJ Budget Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three-time former top economist Charles L. Schultze of the Budget Bureau has become the second top presidential economic adviser to resign within a Rand Corp. Santa Monica, California.

Schultze's resignation—effective after the new budget is presented to Congress—was announced Monday night by the White House.

Ackley was named ambassador to Italy. Schultze plans to join the Brookings Institution, a private research organization based in Washington, and to return to part-time teaching at the University of Maryland, where he formerly taught economics.

Schultze, 43, said he began talking about leaving the director's job as early as last June but agreed to stay on until completion of work on the new budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

That is scheduled for presentation to Congress Jan. 29. The director said his leaving should not be construed as any break with the administration's economic policy. Schultze said he agrees with that policy and endorses the 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposed by Johnson last Aug. 3.

"I'm just plain tired," he said. He has been in the Budget Bureau for five years, first as assistant director, and since June 1, 1965, as director. It is considered one of the most demanding jobs in government.

Fire Sweeps Through Brooklyn Tenement; At Least 13 Are Killed

NEW YORK (AP) — Flames raced through a Brooklyn tenement in the predawn hours today, forcing scores of persons to flee in below-zero cold and leaving 13 dead. All but one member of two families perished.

Dead in the city's worst fire since 46 died aboard an aircraft carrier in 1960 were Mrs. Modesta Diaz and her five children, aged 3 months to 9 years.

Francisco and Juanita Mojica and their four children, aged 4 to 9 years, and 85-year-old Victoria Moreno, the grandmother of the Mojica children.

Francisco Diaz, 29, the only surviving member of his family, said he was watching television with his children when he saw smoke flowing under the door of his second-floor apartment. Minutes later the building was engulfed in flames, he said.

Firemen battled the five-alarm fire for 4½ hours before getting it under control. The flames were fueled by paper cartons on the first floor of the five-story building.

In late morning, firemen continued to sift through the charred, twisted debris but it was thought no more bodies would be found.

When he saw the smoke, Diaz said, he ran upstairs to the top floor flat of Mojica, his brother-in-law.

The Mojica family, he said, was huddled in the smoke-filled hallway.

Diaz said he tried to open a window, but panicky children and their elders barred the way.

Diaz said he shouted to the Mojica family to follow him as he ran to the roof of the burning structure. When he saw no sign of them, he said, he jumped to safety to the roof of an adjoining building.

Quick action by police and firemen saved other tenants today. Patrolman Ralph Sorrentino, one of the first on the scene, said he ran to the alley in the rear where men and women on the second floor began throwing children to him.

He said he caught at least 20 children but missed others. "It was so difficult stumbling through the ice and darkness," One woman who jumped fell on him, he said.

Saved by Firemen
A man and a woman perched on a third-floor ledge against a blazing backdrop were plucked to safety by firemen with the aid of a ladder.

Police said 14 firemen, two policemen and 15 civilians were treated for a variety of injuries at Greenpoint Hospital.

The temperature stood at a record low of 2 degrees for the day when the fire broke out about 12:30 a.m. and fell to 1 degree later. Neighbors threw blankets out of windows to the evacuees.

Some 195 firemen crunched along in ankle-high ice as they used some 39 pieces of equipment to fight the blaze. Firemen said flames at the outset were so fierce they could not enter the building.

The fire department said the blaze apparently started in the ground floor paper carton factory and spread swiftly upward through the tenement which was home for 24 families.

William Meyer Succumbs at 57

Neenah Man Was Vice President at Kimberly-Clark

NEENAH — William B. Meyer, 57, vice president of industrial, public and customer relations of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, died unexpectedly Monday evening.

Meyer joined Kimberly-Clark 33 years ago in the creped wadding manufacturing department at Niagara Falls, N. Y. He moved into central planning at headquarters two years later and became chief planner in 1944.

He became assistant to the sales manager, paper sales department, in 1946, and assistant district manager of the New York region in 1948. He returned to Neenah in 1953 as national sales manager of printing and writing papers, went to New York in 1959 as general sales manager, industrial products, for the Eastern area.

He was elected vice president of industrial sales and marketing in 1961 and has been directing industrial, public and customer relations since 1966.

Meyer, who lived at 400 11th St., Neenah, was a member of the board of directors of Wisconsin Equal Opportunity Association and of Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

Attended Lawrence
He was born in Antigo, May 1, 1910 and attended Lawrence College in Appleton.

Survivors include his widow, his mother, Mrs. Fern B. Meyer, Peabody Manor, Appleton; two sons, Dr. William C. Rochester, Minn., and R. Briggs, New York, N. Y.; and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Reetz, Madison, and Mrs. Al Miller, Ardley, Pa.

Dr. Meyer was co-captain of the Lawrence College football team in 1931.

Complications Follow Transplant

Kasperak Still Critical

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Mike Kasperak's condition has improved but remains critical, doctors said today of the heart transplant recipient.

At noon, the hospital said he was awake and alert, with liver and kidney functions slightly improved.

The 54-year-old ex-steelworker received a new heart Saturday night to replace his failing one.

His condition became critical Monday when he began to bleed from the stomach and intestines. Blood transfusions and other measures appeared to have stopped the bleeding, which his doctors attributed to a severe pre-existing liver disease.

Though conscious and able to signify responses, Kasperak needed help breathing—a tube in his throat—because of lung disease.

"These many complications are severe but solvable as long as the heart function is good," said Dr. Norman E. Shumway, head of the Stanford Medical School team that made the transplant.

Doctors said Kasperak's cardiac output was only slightly below normal and the heart appeared to be functioning very well. His condition was satisfactory from the end of the operation until the internal bleeding began.

Kasperak even watched 10 minutes of a televised news conference about the operation, nurses said. Dr. Shumway and Donald C. Harrison, head of the medical school cardiology division, held the conference at Stanford Sunday afternoon.

Visited by Wife
The patient's wife, Fern, has visited him three times.

Kasperak's diseased heart forced him to quit work 18 months ago. He and his wife moved from Cleveland to East Palo Alto, near Stanford.

He received the heart of Mrs. Virginia White, 43, of nearby Santa Clara two hours after she died. Mrs. White, mother of two, suffered a stroke—a brain hemorrhage—the night preceding the heart transplantation. She lapsed into a coma and never recovered consciousness.

Her husband, Charles W. "Bill" White, daughter Judy, 18, son Ricky, 12, and her mother, told that Mrs. White was dying and there was no hope, agreed to the transplant.

Plans Walk Through Watts
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell says Congress has reversed its position on civil rights since his expulsion from the House of Representatives last March 1. He says it is now cutting away earlier civil rights gains.

Powell, making his third known trip to the United States since his self-imposed exile in the Bahamas in late 1966, said he would kick off his tour with a walk today through Watts, Los Angeles' primarily Negro district, "to meet with all my soul brothers."

The 59-year-old Powell, from New York's Harlem district, still faces arrest on criminal contempt charges stemming from his failure to pay a libel judgment against him. He won a 1967 special election but did not claim his seat in Congress.

He said he would not return to New York because he was "a victim of that obscene, illegal court order."

Powell also said he feared riots if he was arrested in New York, where he is pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church.

At a news conference following a flight from Miami Monday night, Powell said he had been instrumental in obtaining "jobs and education for poor whites and poor blacks." Now, he said, Congress is "cutting that away as fast as it can."

He said the United States is now "engaged in a second Civil War" and that he plans speeches on "the black revolution."

The passage of civil rights laws, Powell said, "hasn't meant anything. There were two riots in Watts and it didn't improve one bit—except for one nice picnic." He apparently referred to last summer's Watts Festival.

"The United States became a republic," Powell said, "because a black man was killed on the Boston Commons. And it just might be necessary that we recover our democratic spirit by having a few more people die."

He said he would meet next week in Bimini, his home in the Bahamas, with his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, to plan legal action against Congress and the courts.

He said he was asking the federal courts "to rule on the law and not on racism" in his case.

Asked about his next move against Congress, Powell said: "When the legal angles have all been exhausted before all the courts in New York, the District of Columbia and the Supreme Court, and I still don't think justice has been done, then I'm going to blow the whistle on Congress."

Since being ousted for misusing government funds, Powell has said that other congressmen misused funds.

Powell said the only Republican ticket which could beat President Johnson would be Rockefeller-Reagan—"in that order."

"That Cat's Beat"
But he predicted that Richard Nixon would win the GOP nomination "and if he does, that's the end of the Republicans. Man, he's had it! That cat's beat!"

Powell said he would talk at the University of California at Los Angeles Wednesday. Later talks are scheduled at the University of Michigan, Duke, the University of Florida and other colleges and universities, he said.

Clothes 'Bone of Contention' Between Teen Girls, Mothers

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few weeks ago a saleswoman sounded off about supposedly loving mothers who bullyrag and insult their teen-age daughters on shopping trips.

My mother and older sister had such slambang fights over clothes that I was afraid to put on a dress either in or out of a store. When my mother took me shopping, I soon learned not to express an opinion. My taste was "atrocious." Hers was "elegant." Once when I saw a dress I really wanted, my mother said, in the presence of the saleswoman, "You are as fat as a pig and that dress makes you look like a freak."

From then on I flatly refused to shop for clothes. I told my mother to bring home whatever she liked and I would wear it. I am a grown woman now, but these horrible memories are as vivid as if they had happened yesterday.

I hate clothes and I wear my dresses till they fall apart. To this day, I cannot pass the dress section where we used to shop without being physically ill.

So, to all you saleswomen who hear mothers insult their daughters, please tell them about me. You might lose a sale, but you will gain a star in your crown by letting some beaten-down girl know she has a friend on her side. — Ragbag

Dear Ragbag: I've always known that clothes are a major bone of contention between young girls and their mothers. (Hair is a close second.) Thank you for telling us what it did to your life. Your letter is bound to strike a few thousand raw nerves around the country.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I lie down on your couch for a few minutes?

After reading the letter from the Columbia University graduate who confessed to 12 years of "going with" a married man, then suddenly it dawned on her that she was a fool. I decided to unload my story.

What do you say?
Answer: Bid one spade. You have 12 points in high cards, with excellent high-card structure and 1 point for the doubleton. This is enough for an optional opening bid, and you decide to bid because of the strong rebiddable spade suit.

marry a respectable woman, not one with whom he had been having an affair. Furthermore, he said his family suspected something had been going on between us and they would never accept me.

Within the year he married a woman my age. She was a divorcee but had managed to keep her name clean — something which, unfortunately, I was not smart enough to do. Now I am — Paying For My Stupidity

Dear Paying: Consider the "debt" paid and be thankful you didn't waste 12 years instead of five. You can make something decent out of your life if you want to. Others in your spot have done it. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my sister and her friend decided to play my record album. When I got home I found the record had been badly scratched in two places.

This particular friend has a brother I like very much. I don't want to get in bad with her, yet I hate for her to ruin my records. She is the careless type and has done this sort of thing before. What do you suggest? — Between Two Fires

Dear B.: Keep your record locked up. If your sister's friend wants to hear your records, tell her to come over when you are at home and you'll play them for her.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Complaints Come With Tournament

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Rubber bridge is a relaxing game, but everybody is tense in a bridge tournament. For example, everybody had a complaint in today's hand, played last month in the open championship of the national tournament in New Orleans.

South won the first trick with the queen of hearts and led the queen of spades for a finesse. When East held off, South led another spade. West discarded the deuce of clubs, and declarer went up with dummy's ace. East took the next spade, and West discarded his low diamond.

East returned a spade, and declarer threw two hearts and one diamond on the spades and then ran the clubs. Forced to reduce to three cards, West blanked the king of diamonds. Declarer thereupon threw a heart from dummy and took two diamond tricks, scoring 11 tricks in all.

Complaints
At rubber bridge the defenders would feel happy that game had not been bid. Since the hand was played in a tournament each defender felt that the other could have saved a trick or two.

"If you hadn't opened hearts, he'd make only nine tricks," East told his partner. "And if you opened the king of hearts, we could still save two tricks." "If you returned a diamond after taking the king of spades," West retorted, "we'd save a trick."

North and South were equally busy. "You might have jumped to two notrump," North told his partner. "Why didn't you bid again?" South wanted to know. "Tournament bridge is a wonderful game as long as you don't insist on being happy while you play it."

Lovelier You Sunny Fashions

For a winter holiday in the sun, clothes make the trip two ways. They go the pretty route, where the scenery is all flowers, fluff and ruffles. Or they take a by-pass — very straight, narrow, cool and chic.

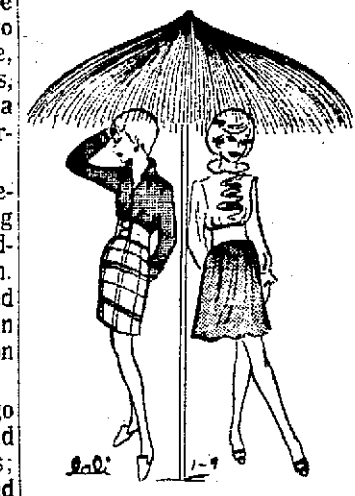

Whichever itinerary you prefer to follow, it is a sure thing that you will find a shirt-and-skirt or a shirt-dress thereon. These are handsomely tailored affairs for daytime wear, in brilliant linens and cotton homespun.

For evening, shirt fashions go romantic. Shirts are soft and ruffled at the throat and wrists; skirts billow out from a belted waistline. Materials and colors are feminine and fragile — voiles and lawns, the palest pastels and flower prints.

Other pacemakers also take two directions. Bathing suits, for instance. The bikini is more than ever spare and simple, while the maillot covers an arm with a tiny sleeve or the throat with a turtleneck.

By day, pants and culottes are designed in no-nonsense cottons to hang plum. Patio pajamas of silky crepes and jerseys widen to extravagant proportions for after-dusk wear.

What, you may wonder, happens to the beloved skimpy dress? It's still with us in fabrics of every degree of formality. The newswiest way to wear it is with an important belt. Like everything that's tangle-bound, the skimpy dress has two versions.

Imaginative Dash Inspires Chef

Although nowadays a cheese and crackers course is often served on a wooden serving dish or a wooden tray, there's nothing wrong with using a dish or tray of silver, glass or china for the cheese and crackers.

If you are making jelly, use the "plate" test. Pour a little of the jelly on a cold plate. If it sets, the jelly is done. But don't overcook the jelly while you are making the test!

Furniture Takes on New, Softer Look

CHICAGO — The look is elegant. It's green; it's gold, and it's no color. It's shaggy, soft and plush — and it's a look you'll be able to live with for years.

Approximately 60 room settings demonstrating these new impressions and new products, are part of the scene this week at the Merchandise Mart during the International Home Furnishings Market.

One designer explained, "Rooms are for fun and relaxation. It's the people in them who are serious."

The rooms being shown at the Mart combine the old and the new, the frivolous and the practical, the nostalgic and the experimental. In a sense they sum up what's happening in home furnishings today.

"In the midst of these chaotic times where there is a diversity of opinions, it is not at all strange that home furnishing trends refuse to settle down to any one direction," commented W. O. Ollman, general manager of the Mart.

The bright, young look is still with us — psychedelic patterns and bold colors crop up in everything from towels to entire room settings. In one "How America Can Live" setting a "flower power" bedspread takes over in a teenage bedroom, in another room a custom area rug in "pop out" flowers in 12 hot colors completely dominates the scene.

Color isn't confined to the young — it's all a state of mind. A room with white frame contemporary furniture, silhouetted against a brilliant backdrop of colorful beads and a wall of primitive Haitian paintings is just as much fun for adults as for young people. It's a "mature mod" that suggest mod accents in a room. Perhaps one chair could be upholstered in a wild fabric or a couple of brilliant pillows could be tossed on a sofa. These mod designs are usually not expensive and give adults an excuse to give in to an occasional whim.

In the opposite design direction is the quiet, understated room with traditional furniture. Perhaps because there is something indestructible about the best of the old-world elegance, it has special appeal in these fast-paced times.

Furniture groups based on English, American, Italian, French and Spanish designs of the 18th and 19th centuries are being previewed this week. The two most noticeable features of these new collections are a more formal, architectural quality and a greater attention to authentic detailing, especially in the middle-priced range. Often, several woods are used in combination, as mahogany and wormy chestnut for solid parts and English oak, walnut and myrtle burl for exposed parts and decorative accents.

Bold Color Schemes

A favorite formula for designers who created traditional "How America Can Live" rooms is the use of contemporary color schemes conveyed with upholstery fabrics, modern area rugs, wall and drapery treatments. In one room, for example, an overscale tartan plaid in lemon yellows is used for the traditionally-styled sofa. In another, the designer selected carpeting in pink and orange to set off a formal bedroom featuring 18th century American furniture.

Another significant happening at the International Home Furnishings Market is a conspicuous outcropping of totally new designs — especially chairs — incorporating new materials, new shapes, art forms and present-day attitudes toward living.

Venetian and Biedemeier Styles create this formal and dramatic dining room. The room, put together by the design staff of Knapp and Tubbs, is interpreted entirely in three colors — green, white and black with gold as the accent. The Venetian-style black lacquer dining table is decorated with 23 carat gold leaf. A Biedemeier buffet and mirror in a light cherry finish with black striping are framed by a pair of Queen Anne chairs upholstered in cut velvet in green tones on natural.

A coming of age is affecting the furniture world. Among the new items are polyethylene chairs and ottomans, foam upholstered modules which can be combined and held together by aluminum framing to form unusual combinations and compressed wood designs with plastic finishes.

Designers are using velvet upholstery and drapery fabrics for both contemporary and traditional rooms because of their rich, warm feeling.

They also are combining all sorts of colors such as purple with orange and golds, bright reds and parrot greens, reds, pinks and lime green. Almost anything goes in the color world influenced by psychedelic and op art.

When the subject of color comes up, there seems to be no in-between. In contrast to the dramatically colored rooms are the quiet ones in rich black and browns or tone-on-tone rooms all in shades of subtle gold or green.

More than ever the Orient, from ancient to present day, is influencing home furnishings. The geographic scope is broader, too, bringing in Bombay, Bangkok, Korea, Taiwan and India.

Influences from Mexico, South America and Haiti, both current and pre-Columbian, are frequently discernible especially in accessories, accent pieces or fabric designs.

The trends at this year's market seem to indicate furniture styles, once chosen, can be combined to reflect the tastes of the individual home-maker. The key seems to be, doing it with taste.

Focal Point in the formal English living room above is a 90-inch sofa upholstered in lemon yellow tartan plaid. Designer Robert W. Smith, repeated the yellow theme in the tile bordering the fireplace and the ottoman. Olive green is added as an accent. A rugged, masculine tone with a strong flavor of the West covers the room, at right, designed by Howard Capel and Fred Delafield. The effect is gained in the strongly textured and patterned upholstery subdued with a quiet color scheme of rustic browns, black and off whites.

New-Fangled' Devices, Ideas Ease Daily Tasks at Home

Poor grandma never had a her way up to the guest rooms Domestic Life and Affairs' holiday. Weeks before any festivity or family gathering, she was tediously engaged in cleaning the cleaning paraphernalia she had to have to put her in order. She mixed her own furniture polish with turpentine and linseed oil, ground her own cleanser, shaped pieces of nurnice for scouring, hemmed her own dusting clothes from old petticoats, cut chamois patches for polishing, made her own "rag" mop and bound together her feather broom. After all that she really went to work.

Grandma cleaned the entire house without a single labor-saving device. She started at the bottom — on her knees — and ended up at the top — on her back — just exhausted. Beginning with whitewashing the kitchen walls, she worked

Cooking Chores

And cooking was no respite either. She probably baked her own bread, churned her own butter, cured the family's meats, preserved fruits, made jams and jellies — and if she was "lucky" enough to have a garden out back — could exert a few back-breaking hours as an unpaid fieldhand.

Of course, even in grandma's day, some observers were saying none of the soft-spoken adage: "Man may work from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." Mrs. Delia McNair Wright in her "Encyclopedia of

Emancipation of Women

With the emancipation of American women and their getting the right to vote, a subtle change toward the home and homemaking became quickly apparent. During the 1920's and 1930's ladies gingerly stepped out to dabble in outside jobs: the war years of the 1940's catapulted them into the factories — and things really haven't been the same since. "Rosie the Riveter" became the prototype of the all-American girl. Today there are over 30 million working women. In fact, one out of every three American mothers with children under 18 goes to work. This boom in on-the-job females has shifted the home as the former focal point of her life and as a result, today's homemaker takes pride in how fast she can get the house chores done, not — as in grandma's day — how long it took.

Because the militant lady of the house was looking for ways to make things easier for herself, she became an enthusiastic partisan in the cooking and cleaning revolutions that began simultaneously. The vacuum — once a luxury for the rich — became a household staple. She avidly took up steam irons, electric skillets, toasters, blenders and every new labor-saving device that came upon the scene. Households across America hummed to the whirr of washing and drying machines. And more recently, milady has taken to heart the electric brooms, rug shampooers and floor waxers that make floor care a snap.

Revolution in Kitchen

If the cleaning revolution was Grandma's Only Labor-Saving Device was her daughter or others in her family who were willing to help with the dusting, polishing and cleaning. Even the tools she used had to be made from cutting and hemming old cloths.

under way, the cooking revolt to be the ultimate in no-cooking was not far behind. As grandma looked on in shock — and disapproving wonder — the era of no-cook, no-bake began. Quick-frozen foods did away with the seasons — not to mention the seasonings, as was. Myths are hard to explode. But should the modern woman of broccoki all saucy, all savory, take hints from grandma? Quite the contrary — and it's too bad to bring it to the table in 14 fast minutes. Packaged mixes, poor old overworked grandma couldn't have taken some tips from modern homemakers. The meats, pre-packed baby foods, real reason the so-called "good" helped free Mrs. America from the tyranny of the hot-old ways — are old-fashioned — and the recent popularity that the "new-fangled" ones are of order-out restaurants appears better.

July Wedding Planned by Engaged Pair

MENASHA — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schreiber, 929 Plank Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Linda Louise, to Dennis Richard Bastian. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frebert Bastian, route 1, Brillion.

Miss Schreiber was graduated from the Appleton Vocational, Technical and Adult School and is employed at the Geo. Banta Co. Mr. Bastian is a graduate of the farm short course at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and is employed at Gilbert Paper Co.

The couple plan to be married July 13.

Lack of Money No Obstacle For Mature College Woman

The mature woman can get a the data received came chiefly teachers paid $1,200. The college education if she wants to from the state schools. Most of even if age, marriage or lack of the graduate schools reporting, funds seem like unsurmountable obstacles.

Financial help is available, as is available to the young woman coming directly from a baccalaureate program.

This was evidenced in a recent survey conducted by a committee of the Wisconsin Assn. of Women Deans and Counselors. Although the committee defined the mature woman as any one over 18 years old, part of the study related specifically to women of more than 35 years.

The committee sent out 65 questionnaires to colleges and universities in Wisconsin and received 35 replies, considered by them to be a good cross-section of the schools contacted. The purpose of the survey was to focus attention on the needs of mature women and to identify the financial aids available to them.

Sources of Aid

The schools were asked questions concerning five areas of financial aid — loans, scholarships, grants, work-study jobs and other employment.

In answer to a question concerning the number of applications for financial aid received during the year 1966-67 from women over 35 years of age, the schools with the information available reported as follows: 157 loan applications received with 145 granted; 232 scholarship applications received with 111 granted; and 13 "other" requests for aid with seven granted.

When asked if they used a model budget for the woman with family responsibilities to include such items as babysitter, household help, car or public transportation, a few schools indicated consideration is given to these items, but most did not comment on it.

Undergraduate Awards

Schools were asked to indicate the dollar equivalent of the largest award made to a mature woman on the undergraduate level during the 1966-67 school year, as well as the average award made. In the first category the awards ranged from $50 to $3,000, with a median of $954. In the second group, the range was $200 to $1,000 with a median of $476.

The same questions were asked regarding financial aid available to women on the graduate level. Since most of the private schools reporting indicated they do not have graduate schools,

Immigration to Cities Expected To Get Worse

Severe Shortage of Urban Jobs Seen in Government Report

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With the nation's central cities already tied in a knot of social and economic problems, a relatively little noted government report suggests that the noose may grow even tighter.

By 1975, said the Economic Development Administration during the weekend, additional job shortages may develop in larger cities as millions flee poverty in their rural homes.

Potential Shortage "The projected problem is that by 1975 the 25 largest metropolitan areas, excluding those in California, will have a potential shortage of 2.9 million jobs," said the agency, a part of the Commerce Department.

Unfortunately, the inability to assimilate millions of immigrants from rural areas already is at the root of urban poverty, riots, slums and ignorance—and solutions are slow in being proposed and often botched in the attempt to carry them out.

Now, it is suggested, the factors that drove 10 million rural people to the city in the 1950s is being intensified. Rural poverty is deepening. The subsistence farmer, the tenant and the sharecropper are being forced out.

Farming today is a business. It is highly mechanized, scientific in its methods and requires a large outlay of capital. The land and buildings alone on an average farm are worth more than $57,000.

Production Soars As business like methods were introduced, farm production soared. Each farmer now supplies about 41 other people with food, a tremendous increase from the 14 he supplied just 20 years ago. Per acre corn production, for example, is up 100 per cent since the late 1940s.

It is not difficult, therefore, to see that the uneducated and poor are ill equipped to compete in modern rural society. A revolution has passed them by, and so they move to the city.

Between 1960 and 1966 farm population dropped four million, with the greatest decrease being among nonwhites and those in their mid-20s and mid-30s. In 20 years the number of farmers decreased to less than 3.7 million from 7.9 million.

This leaves the successful residents of rural America relatively better off than they used to be, but it produces the opposite for the cities which must assimilate the rural emigrants.

New Problems Many refugees from the farm are far less able to cope with city life than the earlier immigrants from Europe, some of whom had lived in cities all their lives.

One result of this is to make the city less livable, in the opinion of many old-time city dwellers. A migration to the nearby suburbs is still under way and the confusing period of change may even intensify. The very people who are needed to help solve the problem have made themselves unavailable.

Some authorities feel that the outside lane, salvation of the city is inevitable because it provides the concentrated environment necessary for commerce and culture good. But belief alone will not help the cities survive.

To do that rural areas must there and drive again," he be made more livable also, that joked.

New Law in Fatalities Pedestrian, Driver Blood Tests Required

As of Feb. 1, it will be instrumental in initiating a pol-mandatory for Wisconsin cor-icy whereby coroners submitted oners to submit blood samples the blood samples.

Under the new state law from driver and pedestrian vic-tims in fatal accidents.

The program, designed to determine and compile informa-tion on the levels of alcohol in morticians must obtain a re-lease from coroners prior to proceeding with embalming any body coming under the scope of the new blood-alcohol provision.

Pines of from $20 to $500 are provided or violation of the new law.

Dan F. Schutz, director of the bureau of highway safety pro-motion for the State Motor Vehicle Department, told cor-oners that his department has received blood samples from 42 per cent of the driver-pedestrian victims. Outagamie County Cor-oner Bernard H. Kemps was the migration of rural poor to the central cities must be stopped, that inducements must be found to keep them on the farm.

At the same time, the emigration of present city dwellers must be slowed also, it suggested. And this, of course, is the problem that everyone recognizes but for which few have workable solutions.

The crisis of the cities is real and urgent. Judged by this latest government report it is ominous also, for joblessness, low pay and poor living conditions are among the explosive ingredients that have made the city "unlivable."

Because of the potential job shortage, the report stated, "7.1 million persons would either have to go to other communities or find jobs at home jobs that are not expected to be created."

In other words, the meaning of the great farm to city migration may be that rural poverty simply becomes urban poverty.

Some Failure Admitted in Sprint Missile WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has acknowledged the mile-a-second Sprint missile, designed as a key part of the nation's $5 billion antiballistic system, has failed several times but said the problems were normal in such a development program.

Although the Pentagon didn't detail the problems for security reasons, it said the failures wouldn't slow deployment of the antimissile batteries in various areas of the country.

However, one specialist in the program told a newsmen Monday he doubted the Sprint ever would be an effective rocket.

The Defense Department said there have been "more successful tests than failures" and added the problems may have been eliminated in test firings last year at White Sands, N.M.

In the ABM system, the Sprint would catch any enemy war-heads eluding the longer-range Spartan missile and blast them with a nuclear detonation 20 or 30 miles above the earth.

It's Not a Mink, but Woman Still Happy PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "We've got a mink. Come and see it. We've never had one before," an excited worker at the Women's Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals telephoned a reporter Monday.

The reporter went to see the animal which WSPCA employees found on a West Philadelphia sidewalk. So did Fred Ulmer, curator of mammals at the Philadelphia Zoo.

"It's a ferret . . . They're built like minks and people do keep them for pets," Ulmer announced to the disappointed staff after a look at the animal.

But one worker was undaunted by the news. "Of course, we've never had a ferret here either," she said.

Traffic Engineer Scared Of New 1-Way Street LINCOLN Neb. (AP) — The City of Lincoln converted two of many old-time city dwell-majors streets to one-way traffic.

And the first accident during a migration to the nearby suburbs is still under way and the confusing period of change may even intensify. The very people who are needed to help solve the problem have made themselves unavailable.

another turning left from an outside lane.

Holsinger later watched the new system from an airplane and reported it "looked real savy for commerce and culture good."

Why the airplane? "I'm not about to get down and drive again," he said.

Winnebago Beautification Council Forms

Vernon Peroutky Named Chairman; Objectives to be Set

OSHKOSH — Vernon Peroutky, Winnebago County agricultural agent, was unanimous choice this morning as chairman of the newly-formed Winnebago County Natural Beautification Council.

Meeting at the court house, committee members elected Donald Tripp, county farm management agent, as secretary of the group.

Peroutky asked that members be prepared by the next meeting to develop basic objectives for the organization which was created recently by the county board of supervisors. He said members should concentrate expression of the objectives on means of involving people.

Also proposed by the committee is an inventory of towns, villages and cities to evaluate work done in natural beautification and those areas which need attention.

Litter Control

Orville Marohn, whose chief committee area is farm landscape, urged the committee to study the need for an ordinance for control of litter. He told the committee he would hope such an ordinance would never be used but that without some legal support, he feared it would be difficult to gain cooperation in removing trash from a number of areas in the county.

Also discussed by the committee were a variety of tree planting programs along town and county roads and in other suitable areas and the advisability of providing trash cans to eliminate highway litter.

In discussing the future of the committee, Peroutky emphasized, "This is a people's program." He said the work of the committee and of the community will in a large part be voluntary and that no county funds are involved.

Husband Won't Leave Home Pistol, Dogs Stymie Policemen

MENASHA — Officials were checking their law books today before deciding what to do about the pistol waving husband in a divorce action who turned police and a court officer away from his home Monday night.

Police said they were uncertain whether the pistol was loaded, and they added he never pointed it at them or threatened them. But they said the man told them the only way they would get him out of the house would be to shoot him. At another point, police said he raised his pistol and said it was "the only law".

Two police officers accompanied Fred Bronsdon, bailiff of Winnebago County courts, to the man's home at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Bronsdon's request. Bronsdon asked police help after the man refused to see him previously.

Officers said the man let them in but when Bronsdon asked him to leave with him and the policemen, the man went to the kitchen and returned waving the pistol. He cocked and uncocked it repeatedly while swinging it, the officers reported.

Stating he would only leave if shot by the policemen, he also told the officers he had 21,000 rounds of ammunition in the house. The officers said they saw three rifles hanging on the living room wall, a holstered revolver lying on the couch and two ammunition belts filled with cartridges.

They said there were also three German Shepherd dogs in the house, including one the officers said the man had to restrain to keep the animal from lunging at them.

The policemen said that after weighing the man's obviously agitated state, the presence of the dogs and the weapons in the house — and considering the legal ground they stood on — the officers decided to leave. Their report raised the possibility of obtaining a warrant for the man's arrest on a charge of contempt of court.

The papers being served were routine divorce documents, according to authorities. The man was ordered to appear before the court commissioner and to move from the premises he had shared with his wife — a common procedure early in divorce proceedings.

Officers said the man explained to them the house was his mother's and he was afraid of losing it in the divorce settlement. He also said his wife would not care for his dogs, police reported.

Town Approves Park Sketches

NEENAH — Initial steps for the development of Mahler Park began Monday night as the Town Board of Neenah approved a preliminary park sketch.

The plans will be presented to the park commission at its Monday night meeting and then estimates on cost and yearly development will get underway.

Helen Burger of the park commission said the park will be developed in steps, although they haven't been laid out as of yet.

Tarr Task Force hearings this week, Eugene Franchetti, executive director said.

The meeting will be held at the municipal building in Oshkosh.

Among the items on the agenda are a progress report on the investigation of the public-parochial schools enrollment trends.

Absenteeism Not Severe In Menasha

MENASHA — Absenteeism at local schools last week failed to warrant suspending classes for health reasons, Menasha officials are convinced.

And Monday night, the city's health director blamed an assortment of holiday ailments and common hooky-playing for much of the absenteeism that did arise last week in Menasha schools while Neenah schools were kept closed after the holiday recess.

Mrs. Katherine Feit said flatly there was no widespread outbreak of "flu" discovered after a daily inspection of absentee lists and investigation of the absent students' excuses.

She said the decision to keep school open was made after numerous discussions among officials, relying on the advice of the city's medical advisor.

Absenteeism, she said, totaled 350 out of a total public school enrollment of about 6,300 on Monday last week. By Friday, the total had risen to 600, but Mrs. Feit blamed much of the increase on the fact that "the word was out" that Neenah schools were closed. By this week Monday, absenteeism had dropped to 450, she said.

Market Making Broad Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed a broad advance in active trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.6 at 328.7 with industrials up 3.2, rails up .3 and utilities up .6.

Gains outnumbered losses by a ratio of well over 2 to 1.

The market still was powered by the new leadership which came into evidence last week as prospects of peace talks in Vietnam began to seem warmer. This was still a major hopeful force under the market.

Economic Strength

Signs of growing economic strength and normal January reinvestment demand also supported buying power.

The long-neglected blue chip issues showed continued strength as contrasted with the glamor issues which took to the background.

Papers, retail-mail orders, building materials and oils were in favor.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 7.11 at 916.03.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 7.11 at 916.03.

International Paper

International Paper, up more than a point, was high among the most active stocks, resuming its recent upsurge amid reports the company was accumulating its own stock in the market for use in possible acquisitions.

American Telephone continued in demand, but backed away from an early fractional rise.

Sears Roebuck, showing unusual strength for this stock, climbed 3 points.

Capital Cities Broadcasting was up between 3 and 4 points on news it plans to take over privately held Fairchild Publications.

Prices resumed their advance in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Power Engineers Plan Appleton Convention

The Appleton chapter of the National Association of Power Engineers will meet at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 18 in the Conway Hotel to prepare for the state convention scheduled for Appleton May 2-4.

The 100-member chapter is sponsoring the convention, according to John Sobiesczyk, publicity chairman.

The association is an organization of persons involved in power plant operations and allied industries.

Rescue Efforts Fail For Appleton Woman

Mrs. Edward Reider, 63, was pronounced dead on arrival at Appleton Memorial Hospital about 7 a.m. today.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad was called to her home at 312 S. Lee St., where firemen administered oxygen before taking her to the hospital.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Wichmann Funeral Home.

McKinley School Is Several Weeks Ahead of Plans

Construction on the new McKinley Elementary School is several weeks ahead of schedule, in relation to Highlands Elementary School construction a year ago, Appleton Supt. of Schools William Spears told the Board of Education Monday night.

McKinley, located on the former Meilke property on Appleton's far southside, is expected to be complete for classes next September. Highlands was completed last fall.

Spears said it appears that there will be several hundred parochial students who will want to attend the public school, and he noted that because of expected enrollment gains, McKinley must be ready for Sept. 3 classes.

He said he had been in contact with parochial school officials concerning the matter.

Ex-Appleton Woman, Retired Consultant of Labor Department Dies

Gwen Geach, 72, a former Appleton resident and retired labor standards consultant for the Department of Labor, died Dec. 28 of cancer at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md.

Born in England, she came to Appleton as a young girl to attend high school and to live with relatives, the J. H. Tippet family. She followed her cousin, the late Charles and the late Ralph Tippet, both in the Class of 1913; Earl Tippet, Class of 1914; and the late Walter Tippet, Class of 1915, to Lawrence and was graduated in 1923.

Miss Geach served with the national office of the League of Women Voters from 1929 to 1934, when she became executive secretary of the Washington, D.C., Minimum Wage Board. In 1939 she joined the Labor Department where she remained until her retirement in 1963.

Appleton Firm Makes Low Bid

Lee H. Parker Construction Inc., Appleton, was among the low bidders today for Wisconsin road improvements totaling $8,053,013.

The bids, including projects on the interstate system under the accelerated building program, were received by the Wisconsin Division of Highways.

Parker was apparent low bidder with $1,087,290 for the base course and final surfacing on nearly five miles of Interstate 94 in the Black River Falls-Perry Creek section in Jackson County.

Farm Building Burns To Ground Early Today

HOLLANDTOWN—A 12-by-12-foot building owned by Robert Zwick, route 3, Kaukauna, burned to the ground about 4 a.m. today. Volunteer firemen from the Town of Holland reported the fire out of control when they arrived. No attempt was made to extinguish the blaze.

The building is located on County Trunk Z, east of Kaukauna. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Check Thief Reportedly Found in New Orleans

New Orleans, La., police notified Appleton authorities Monday that they have apprehended a person whom they believe stole $640 worth of travelers' checks Nov. 17 from Walter Rohde, 2528 W. Northland Ave.

The checks reportedly were stolen from a New Orleans motel room. New Orleans police were seeking further information on the checks.

Village Kiwanis to Install New Officers

KIMBERLY — Lt. Gov. Irv Curry, Kaukauna, will install officers at a dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Darboy Club held later this month.

New directors and committee chairman will meet following the dinner to discuss the year's programs and projects. Discussion will be held on the invitation of the Kiwanis Club.

Solution Sought To Halt Youths Walking Tracks

Village Officials, Railroad Schedules Kimberly Meeting

KIMBERLY — In an effort to stop students from using the railroad right-of way as a route to the high school, officials have scheduled a meeting for 7 p.m. Thursday to seek a solution to the problem.

Students, school officials, village officials and railroad representatives will meet in the high school lecture room to seek a satisfactory solution to the problem.

The session was arranged by the school's program committee, student council and safety council. The committees agreed a program must be instituted to insure student cooperation and provide alternate routes to the school. Only one street leads to the school and difficulty is encountered when train traffic delays students. Students from some sections of the village walk along the tracks to shorten the trip to and from school. This has been a major concern for railroad officials and they have offered to cooperate in any manner that will eliminate the practice.

Will Define Problem Steve Dietzler, student council president, will serve as program chairman. He will define the problem, express the purpose of the meeting and set forth conduct of the session. A representative of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company will express the railway problem.

Daniel Sensiba, faculty representative, will present the problem on behalf of students, faculty and the administration. William Ebben will outline the student viewpoint after which group discussions will be attempted.

A movie, "Trains, Tracks and Safety Facts," was shown at an assembly prior to the holidays.

1968 National Easter Seal Campaign Effort

Miss Dinah Shore, well known singer and television personality, has been named 1968 National Easter Seal campaign chairman.

She will officially open the campaign March 1 and continue her activities to April 14 (Easter Sunday). These will include the traditional launching ceremony at the White House and several personal appearances.

Jimmy Durante, permanent honorary chairman, and Mrs. Lynda Bird Johnson Robb will help Miss Shore in heading the campaign.

The annual Easter Seal campaign provides the main support for rehabilitation services to the handicapped. In addition, the Wisconsin Society operates Camp Wauwabeek for crippled children and adults near Wisconsin Dells. It also maintains homecraft services through which articles produced by handicapped craftsmen are merchandised.

Port Manager Battle Boils in County Board

manager and had sought this authority when he was committee chairman but was overruled by the board. "On this issue, (hiring of Olson) your (the board's) opinion hasn't even been asked," Catlin said.

"The actions taken to date are illegal in that they violate state statute, county board rules and the contract with Sagunsky," the former supervisor charged.

His resolution called for restoring Sagunsky's contract, and voiding the contract with Olson which was signed by three members of the Airport Committee.

Ponath, in answering Catlin, said his original ruling that the Airport Committee had the authority to hire the manager was based on language in Sagunsky's contract which was written by Catlin. However, Ponath said that since state statutes forbid contracts for more than two years, Sagunsky's contract automatically ended Jan. 1 and Catlin's resolution was a "moot question."

The question is, Ponath said, whether the board wants to hire Olson or Sagunsky as the manager.

Pro And Con Supv. Robert Weyenberg, Kimberly, a member of the Airport Committee, said he had no objections to Sagunsky as a fixed base operator at the airport but said he had objections to him as a manager. He listed a number of instances in which he said Sagunsky failed to properly perform his duties as manager. He also said Sagunsky's incorporation as Maxair without the consent of the county board was in violation of his contract.

Appleton Supv. Clarence Miller defended Sagunsky, saying, "Let's consider Max's 14 years as manager. If there were grievances, why wasn't this brought out earlier? Why didn't the Airport Committee come before the board if they wanted to terminate Max's contract?"

Another member of the Airport Committee, Supv. Stanley Gillespie, Town of Grand Chute, deplored the issue developing into a personality fight on the board floor. "The committee acted in good faith," he said. "You don't hire a man on sentiment. Most of us are sure we have the better man (Olson). This fight is doing nothing but harming the image of the county and the two individuals involved."

Defends Action

Supv. John Dietz, Appleton, also on the committee, defended the action against complaints that Olson was recommended because he had submitted a lower salary request than Sagunsky. "We didn't recommend Olson because of the lower salary. If he had asked for more than Sagunsky, I still would have recommended him. You can't run a business on sentiment."

Fischer, who was asked to appear by Weyenberg, said the county must protect its investment in the airport with good management. He added he personally liked Sagunsky but did not feel he had done a good job as manager.

Petitions supporting Sagunsky, signed by "several hundred" people, were filed with County Clerk Mollie Pfeffer by Supv. Allen Bollitz. A petition supporting Olson had been filed earlier.

$180,000; and one 45-unit dwelling, $450,000.

A compilation of permits taken out for new buildings during December set the construction total for the past month at $157,067.

F.W. Dodge Co., marketing and information specialists, said in its January report that construction gains continued across the country during November and December — up more than 20 per cent from 1966.

Not including December, the Dodge Report for 11 months of 1967 showed that nationwide non-residential building increased three per cent while residential construction was up seven per cent over the previous year.

Single-family and apartment housing projects were setting a fast pace in the closing months of the year, showing a nearly full recovery from the 1966 mortgage squeeze.

Romney Is the Underdog in Wife's Speech

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the Michigan governor, opened the 1968 presidential wars here Monday calling her husband an "underdog, but a straight arrow" while the governor himself was in the east preparing for the New Hampshire primary.

The slim, personable Mrs. Romney, a former actress, spoke to about 150 students and faculty Monday afternoon at the University of Wisconsin Center and to about 250 students and adults that evening at St. Norbert College.

She said "The overriding issue in my husband's campaign will definitely be Vietnam." However, she declined to state his position, saying only he will make a major speech on the matter within two weeks.

She added that other issues which will be stressed by the three time governor of Wisconsin's neighboring state will be problems of urban centers, inflation and fiscal responsibility and the credibility gap.

Meanwhile, in Washington Monday, Romney hinted he will take a somewhat hawkish position on the war by saying he should not halt the bombing of North Vietnam without evidence it would lead to a satisfactory peace.

Mrs. Romney described her husband as "a conservative in financial matters, but a liberal concerning human beings."

Romney is the first to declare his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President. His wife said he considers Richard Nixon his chief competition. Romney, Nixon, Harold Stassen and possibly California Gov. Ronald Reagan may compete in the Wisconsin primary election April 2.

The city will begin developing the park facilities, including the planting of trees, and the school can use the school sites as the need arises, Kittleson said.

Approves Calendar

In other business the board unanimously approved the 1968-69 calendar recommendation, which schedules classes to start Sept. 3 and conclude June 6.

No school days for the year will include two in early November and one in mid-April, which teacher groups can use for conferences or other meetings; two for Thanksgiving vacation; eight during the Christmas-New Years season; five at Easter, and one for Memorial Day.

Dates for no school days are Nov. 6-7, Nov. 28-29; Dec. 23-Jan. 1; Mar. 31-April 4, April 18 and May 30.

Teacher orientation meetings run from Aug. 26-30, including the Aug. 26 new teacher orientation day.

Mrs. Heil, board representative on the three-man committee to arrange the calendar, said the group set up the calendar to allow families to enjoy the three-day Labor Day weekend and teachers to complete classes in time to attend college summer school sessions.

Adopt Recommendation

The board adopted a recommendation of the school equipment selection committee to accept the combined bid $139,748 by School Interiors, Brookfield, for cabinetry, chalk boards and tackboards, elementary science crafts and special activities material, and science and arts and crafts materials for Madison Junior High School and Highlands Elementary School.

Stamps With Food Sales Ruled Illegal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON, Wis. — Trading stamps cannot be legally issued by merchants in Wisconsin in sales involving minimum mark-up items such as groceries, the state bureau of consumer practices has advised the Wisconsin Association of Food Dealers.

J. L. Agnes of the division explained that under Wisconsin law such stamps are redeemable only in cash, and when issued with grocery sales serve to reduce the price of the merchandise.

Thus when such items are sold at the legal minimum mark-up there is a violation of the State Unfair Sales Act, the official advised the trade group, and would be subject to prosecution under that law.

An Admiring Crowd of Fans pressed in on Bart Starr Monday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in order to get the star quarterback's autograph following a practice. Starr will lead the National Football League

Lombardi Lauds Raiders' Offense, Defensive Speed

Expects Bays To Overcome Their Fatigue

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, boss of the National Football League champion Green Bay Packers, must be getting soft toward the rival American Football League.

Lombardi was kind and cautious Monday in calling the Oakland Raiders, opponents of the Packers in Sunday's Super Bowl game, "very fine and very quick on defense."

He was disappointed because Green Bay and Oakland exchanged game films of only their last three games of the season.

"I would have preferred a broader swap," Lombardi told a news conference. "But if I hadn't agreed, I'd be what they accuse me of."

Last year Green Bay and Kansas City swapped films of "any" three games and Green Bay won the game 35-10.

Lombardi gave the young AFL a thumping endorsement.

Pretty Good Veteran

"People call the AFL a junior league," he said. "It may be a junior league in terms of years, but I don't think there's a helluva great difference between eight years and 40 years in our business. You get to be a pretty good veteran in eight years."

Lombardi said Oakland has an excellent offense; great speed by the cornerbacks, ability among the front four and linebackers, and a good pass rush.

He said that after 22 games, his players are fatigued both mentally and physically, but he believes they will overcome fatigue for Sunday's finale in Miami's Orange Bowl.

"I am as proud of this team as any I ever coached," he said. "It has accomplished a great deal. This team has more speed capability."

"It's true we depend more upon the pass than ever before, but this is partially due to the injury situation."

Lombardi agreed that veteran quarterback Bart Starr had been thrown for a number of losses during the season, but he said:

"We're going to get caught, but it doesn't bother us. We have a different philosophy, and it just doesn't bother us. We send out more receivers. Sometimes we will get caught; sometimes they will get caught."

'Chewed Out' by Dad Vince Says Packers Are Faster Than Club Of Hornung-Taylor Era

Coach Vince Lombardi asserted during Monday's press conference, "I would be disappointed if we would play a bad game or didn't win because of what might be called fatigue."

His team, one scribe suggested had won despite a variety of problems. "Yes, they have," he back, too, but was concerned Lombardi nodded. "I've got to over the virus his quarterback say I'm as proud of this team caught last Thursday."

as any I've coached and that "If he had an ingrown toenail, is true regardless of what I'd be worried," Rauch said. "I happens Sunday. They have overcome a great deal."

"We lost four offensive backs along the way," he pointed out, "and we've got two fellows playing fullback (Ben Wilson and Chuck Mercein) that nobody else wanted. They both have done very, very well for us."

Lombardi revealed, in this connection, that he may use Donny Anderson and rookie Travis Williams in the same backfield Sunday. Anderson would be running from his customary left halfback post and Williams, normally a halfback, from fullback.

He also said he contemplates employing this pair simultaneously with Eliah Pitts and-or Jim Grabowski, both currently recuperating from injuries, next season.

"3-Man Backfield"

"I've always been a great believer in a 3-man backfield," he said, "and this is an ideal situation."

Asked to evaluate his present striking potential with that of two years ago, Lombardi observed, "we're capable of more speed than we were then. Hornung and Taylor were hard-nosed running backs, but they did not have great speed."

"On this team, Anderson has excellent speed, Williams has great speed and Grabowski has tremendous speed for his size, and is capable of breaking a game wide open."

Did he feel this game is accompanied by as much pressure as last year's first Super Bowl? Lombardi laughed and replied, "I know I don't seem to get as much pressure from the owners as I did last year. But whether there is more or less pressure, I don't know."

Would you be embarrassed, he later was asked, "if you were the first Red Smith award winner, Marty (Dago) Lamers, is also expected to be at the banquet."

Davis is secretary of the White Sox minor league system, for the Chisox, will be a roving pitching instructor in the White Sox Farm system (including the Appleton Foxes) in '68.

Doster serves as president of the Midwest League, of which Appleton is a member.

Al Lopez, former big league catcher, long-time manager and now a Sox vice president, will receive the 1968 "Nice Guy" Award. Appleton baseball pioneer C. O. Baetz will receive the Smith award.

Tickets for the banquet are being sold in the Men's Department at Prange's.

Lamonica Still Down With Flu

BACA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Daryle Lamonica was in bed with the flu and end Billy Cannon was missing when the Oakland Raiders opened drills here Monday for the Super Bowl game with the Green Bay Packers in Miami's Orange Bowl Sunday.

However, Coach John Rauch said Cannon was detained at dental school in Memphis, Tenn., and was expected on the practice field today.

Rauch hoped Lamonica would be back, too, but was concerned about the virus his quarterback said "I've got to over the virus his quarterback say I'm as proud of this team caught last Thursday."

as any I've coached and that "If he had an ingrown toenail, is true regardless of what I'd be worried," Rauch said. "I happens Sunday. They have overcome a great deal."

Following conference runnerup Oshkosh Lourdes Sunday night, Neenah risks its sole Mid-Eastern Conference lead at dangerous Kaukauna tonight (in a makeup game) and entertains troublesome Two Rivers Friday night. Two Fox Cities schools have lost only a pair of games. M-E runnerup Kimberly (7-2) faces New London with its lone assignment this week. New Appleton East (6-2) will inaugurate its new gym Friday against Green Bay East. The Patriots have done exceptionally well, especially in view of the fact that they have played all of their games on the "road."

Appleton West (6-3) remains a major surprise in the Fox River Valley Conference, holding down the runnerup spot behind Manitowoc, with a 6-1 record. The Terrors, who started the season with but one letterman, face a thorny task in Green Bay Friday when they meet West's Wildcats, who finally reached their expected form against Oshkosh last weekend after floundering for weeks.

Menasha (6-3) remains a factor in the M-E title race and figures to continue its improvement into the second half of its regular-season slate. The Jays play at Shawano Friday, against a potentially potent Indian quint.

The current 500 clubs, Kaukauna and Menasha St. Mary, are capable of giving any team the "treatment" on a given night. The Ghosts face Neenah and Clintonville in their demanding week, while the Zepphys are due to meet the Chuters and Marinette.

St. John's second foe of the period will be Fox Valley Catholic Conference-leading Premonstre The Cadets and Manitowoc, remain the only unbeaten teams among the 27 in the Fox Cities area's three major circuits.

PVL has another rugged chore Friday, facing Wayland Academy which is unbeaten in the Midwest Prep Conference and just recently suffered its first over-all loss at the hands of Xavier.

Constantine, Sports Car Driver, Dies at 49

NEW YORK (AP) — George J. Constantine, 49, internationally known sports car racing driver, died Sunday night.

Constantine succumbed to a heart attack at an apartment he maintained at 279 East 44th St. His home was at 27 Maple St., Southbridge, Mass.

Named the U.S. sports car driver of the year in 1960, Constantine also had won the 1959 Nassau Trophy Race and the 1956 Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Andrews is second, with 97 points, while Childs and Brooke are tied for third with 76 each. Brooke has 64 markers and reserve Karl Hickerson has scored 37.

Townsend Leads Scoring Vikes Set Sights on Ripon

After opening the Midwest Conference basketball campaign by dividing a pair of games last weekend, the Lawrence University cagers have set their sights on state rival Ripon College.

The Vikings and Redmen will clash Saturday on the Ripon court in a 7:30 p.m. contest. Freshman teams from the two schools meet in a preliminary game.

In looking ahead to the meeting with Ripon, Coach Clyde Rusk, of the Vikings said: "That's one thing about this game, whenever a Lawrence and Ripon team meet it's going to be a battle, and we're going in there with the idea that we're coming home with a victory."

Last weekend, the Vikes came through with a 66-62 victory over Carleton College, then dropped a 80-78 overtime decision against St. Olaf.

Childs made a key 3-point play late in the game that helped force the overtime and also hauled down some crucial rebounds. Rusk noted. Brooke had nine rebounds, "a good job, especially since St. Olaf didn't miss often" Rusk added.

Lawrence has a 4-2 record over-all. Bob Townsend still leads in scoring with 102 points in the six games.

Andrews is second, with 97 points, while Childs and Brooke are tied for third with 76 each. Brooke has 64 markers and reserve Karl Hickerson has scored 37.

Liberals Name Prime Minister For Australia

Sen. John Gorton Not Expected To Change Holt Foreign Policy

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — He was a fighter pilot in World War II and was shot down once, off Singapore in 1942. He is married to the former Mrs. Belinda Brown of Bangor, leader of the Liberal Party to Maine. Mrs. Gorton has kept day, assuring his installation as her American citizenship so far Australia's next prime minister, but says she'll gladly become an Australian now if her husband would be sworn in as prime minister. Since Gorton has been Liberal Party Prime Minister Harold E. Holt's leader in the Senate. In keeping with the tradition of the Liberal Party, the junior member of the Liberal-Country Party coalition that has governed Australia since 1949, Gorton, 56-year-old minister for education and science, had been favored over three other candidates to succeed Holt. The latter is leader of the Country Party, the junior member of the Liberal-Country Party coalition that has governed Australia since 1949.

Fulbright Feels Johnson Wants Red Surrender, Not Just Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright expresses strong doubts the Johnson administration is aggressively pursuing the possibility of peace talks with North Vietnam. "The administration is not interested in surrender," he said Monday in an interview. The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he did not expect the White House and State Department would follow up on the recent Hanoi statement that peace talks will result if the United States ends its air strikes and other acts of war. His countrymen "can be sure that I will try my best and I will look to them for strength successfully to conclude what we start," he said.

Deputy Leader

A party spokesman said William McMahon would continue as deputy leader of the Liberal party. Normally McMahon would have succeeded Holt, but the Country Party disagreed with him on several issues and threatened to break up the coalition if he became prime minister. He did not enter the election for party leader.

Quiet Pay Raises Possible for Congress

By ROBERT T. GRAY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress have set themselves up for possible pay raises, every four years without the public relations problems that could be involved if they actually voted themselves more money.

Formal recommendations on whether there should be an increase—and how much—will be primarily the responsibility of a special commission and the President.

While the President would forward final recommendations to Congress, members would not have to stand up and be counted on whether they should be put into effect.

Their salary level, now $30,000 a year, would go automatically to the recommended figure in 30 days if Congress did not vote to reject or reduce it.

The nine-member commission will be appointed this July by the President, vice president, House speaker and chief justice.

Its proposals must be in the President's hands by the end of 1969 and they will be submitted to Congress with the presidential budget message early in 1970. The procedure will be repeated every four years.

Along with recommendations among other things, raised post- for congressional salaries, the executive branch, including Cabinet officers, and for the federal judiciary.

The salary panel was created after a sharp House-Senate conflict, in a catch-all bill that.

Senators contended congressional men should be willing to take full responsibility for raising their salaries. The House was all for the salary commission. The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee was dead set against it.

The Senators finally yielded a conference to resolve differences on the two bills.

Agreeing to the commission was the price they paid for acceptance of their proposal to raise third-class mail rates higher levels than those proved by the House.

The Senate—a smaller body with a greater percentage of members with sizable incomes—was not as concerned as the House over the salary issue.

Raising their own pay generally has been a matter of great concern for congressmen, and has been a frequent cause of political opponents and constituents.

Senators and representatives have sought to explain the reasons for their jobs make on incomes. They point to the necessity of maintaining offices in Washington as well as in their states, office expenses beyond those paid by the government and frequent trips between Washington and home.

Backers of the plan assume appointees will be top leaders in business, industry, education and other prestigious fields whose sponsorship of such proposals might give them certain immunity from criticism.

Surveyor Seems Ready For Soft Lunar Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 7 appears set to make a soft landing on the moon tonight. It will make the last U.S. probe of the moon before manned heads there himself.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory will attempt to put the craft down near the rugged highlands north of the crater Tycho.

It carries a television camera, a small scoop to dig trenches, a device to analyze soil with radiation and magnets to detect iron.

If things go well, the 2,288-pound space vehicle will be slowed from 6,000 miles an hour by retrorockets so that it will be going 3 m.p.h. 13 feet above the lunar surface. It will free fall the last 13 feet.

Landing was expected about 8:15 p.m. EST.

The mission of the Surveyor, launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., early Sunday, is to see if there is any significant difference between the Tycho area and the equatorial plains chosen for manned landings planned as early as next year.

The target area for Surveyor is a 12-mile circle not far from Tycho's scrubbed rim. It's the smoothest spot near the crater, but scientists have given the craft a 43 per cent chance of landing safely. Surveyors 5 and 6, which were successful, were given 47 per cent chances.

The first post-landing day is to be occupied with taking pictures of the landing area and warming up an analyzer which uses radiation to determine composition of the lunar surface. The digger is scheduled for operation the second day.

Scientists hope to make at least two analyses of moon soil in the first two weeks after the craft's arrival.

Boa Ungrateful For Defrosting

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Never trust a boa constrictor, even if it looks frozen stiff.

David Lacovey, 17, found such a frozen looking 2 1/2-foot snake in front of Montgomery-Blair High School Monday.

David carried the snake to the biology lab and put it in a container, hoping it would thaw out. The snake did. It bit David on the finger.

Back at It Again— NCAA Blasts AAU For Breaking Truce

Feud, National Football Crown Headline Discussions at Meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — Taking to the convention a year from time out for a couple of angry now words at the Amateur Athletic Union, the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association began to talk about a national football championship, rules changes and a dozen and one other topics. The meetings officially got under way Monday and both NCAA President Marcus Plant and the head of the U.S. Track and Field Federation, Father Wilfred Crowley, voiced their displeasure with the AAU. Plant contended that AAU had repeatedly violated the moratorium on the feud between the USTFF, an arm of the NCAA, and the AAU over the control of amateur track and field. The moratorium was to last until a federal panel worked out a permanent solution. Father Crowley, in the meantime, said that if the AAU interfered in any way with the federation's annual indoor track championships, set for Madison Square Garden next month, the USTFF would take the issue to court.

"Take Every Step" "We are ready to challenge the monopolistic measures of the AAU in court and get proper redress, if necessary," Father Crowley said. "We'll take every legal step possible to prevent any harm to any athlete. We have legal advice that the AAU rules are against the Sherman Antitrust Act."

Last year, several foreign athletes who attend American colleges were threatened with suspension if they competed in the federation meet and pulled out of the competition.

A proposal for a series of playoffs to decide a national football champion is coming under serious discussion at the convention. Conceivably, the plan could be put into effect as early as the fall of 1969.

"Our purpose," said Paul Brechler of the Western Athletic Conference and chairman of the committee studying the plan, "is to find out if there is a workable plan and, if so, to submit it losing effort in its opening game. The Boiler-makers were narrowly beaten, 73-71, by top-ranked UCLA.

The Badgers have beaten Purdue seven times in the 12 games between the two since Erickson came to Wisconsin. The Boiler-makers hold a 46-43 series edge, but haven't topped the Badgers since 1965.

Erickson said Wisconsin's starting lineup would consist of the relatively short, but speedy, crew, that downed Michigan. Leading the Badgers will be Joe Franklin, who has a nearly 23-point average, and Jim Johnson, with an 18.7-point mark.

Rounding out the Wisconsin quintet are Chuck Nagle, Mike Carlin and Mel Reddick.

British Tennis Group Receives Expected Word

Suspended by the ILTF; Effective Date April 22

LONDON (AP) — British tennis officials got the official word Monday that the British Lawn Tennis Association has been suspended, effective April 22, for its decision to hold an open Wimbledon tournament and looked to other countries to join them in the big rebellion.

Maj. David Mills, secretary of the All-England Club which is planning the first open Wimbledon next June, said: "We regret the decision to suspend Britain, but we still hope other countries will permit their players to come and play here."

Britain's suspension as from April 22 had been announced in Rome, in stern language, by Giorgio di Stefani, president of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

Abolish Distinction April 22 is the date Britain plans to abolish the distinction between professionals and amateurs. It has angered the ILTF by taking this decision in defiance of the international rules.

The suspension means that foreign amateurs will be forbidden to compete in Britain. The British, in turn, will be banned from the Davis Cup and from all tournaments overseas.

The British were not surprised to hear they were being suspended. But John Eaton Griffith, Britain's delegate to the ILTF, commented: "The ILTF is precipitant and shows every lack of good will. It includes some small men clothed in authority and wanting to show it."

As things stand now, Wimbledon would be confined to professionals and British amateurs.

The British hope the Americans will back them by voting for open tennis at the annual meeting of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Feb. 3. That could change the whole situation.

Meanwhile, Australia, holder of the Davis Cup, has to decide whether to include Britain in the draw for this year's tournament Jan. 20.

Basil Reay, secretary of both the ILTF and the British Lawn Tennis Association, said: "I cannot see Britain taking part. But it is up to Australia to decide whether Britain goes into the draw."

If the British are included in the draw, the ILTF presumably will step in later and disqualify them—unless the situation changes meanwhile.

Celtic Hopes to Regain NBA Title May Depend on Graham

BOSTON (AP) — Mal Graham of New York University was the Boston Celtics' No. 1 star decided to try out for Boston selection in the National Basketball Association draft, but he isn't even mentioned in the club's brochure.

The omission of Graham from the booklet was intentional, but there's little question he's a full-year, fledged member of the team now.

Graham and the Celtics had a little difference of opinion on how a contract should be negotiated last summer. Graham sent out his lawyer, Celtics' General Manager Red Auerbach ushered Jones said. "He is learning the attorney out of the club of fast."

Most of the Celtics call it a like to have veteran kicking specialist Lou Groza around as a part-time coaching consultant. Groza is with the Cleveland Browns.

"I have kidded Lou several times about serving as a part-time coach with me," Brown told the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Court to Wait Awhile Longer For Wolman

Lawyers Need More Time to File List of Business Statements

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Wolman has been given more time to file a detailed list of his assets and liabilities in his court effort to avoid bankruptcy and save investments which include the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

A deadline Monday, already an extension, was delayed until Jan. 23 by Joseph O. Kaiser, referee in bankruptcy for the U.S. District Court of Maryland. Lawyers for the 40-year-old sportsman and real estate developer said that despite diligent efforts it had been impossible to complete a statement on Wolman's financial affairs.

He went to court Dec. 13 "in haste to prevent threatened execution on the part of judgment creditors and lien holders." Wolman asked in the petition for time to propose an arrangement for meeting his debts.

Any plan to avoid outright bankruptcy would have to be approved by Kaiser and then a majority of the creditors representing at least half of Wolman's liabilities.

In the meantime, Wolman will be allowed to operate his many enterprises.

The first meeting of his creditors is scheduled Jan. 19 before Kaiser. Some of them, including the American National Bank of Maryland, have petitioned for authority to seek foreclosure of a $10.5 million mortgage.

In a summary of his position, Wolman listed $92.3 million in assets and $85.7 million in liabilities with the names and addresses only of 280 creditors.

Brown Would Like Groza as A Consultant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals will go to Wilmington, Ohio, College for their preseason practice next summer for the start of their first season in the American Football League.

Wilmington is about 40 miles from Cincinnati.

Coach and General Manager Paul Brown of the Bengals called the college "a perfect location for us" and added, "its facilities are excellent."

"We want our camp to be close for the newspaper, television and radio people and within driving range of the areas from which we will draw our fans," said Brown.

Brown said he plans a special day for fans at the Bengals' final intrasquad scrimmage before the preseason games begin. The Bengals will begin practice at Wilmington shortly after July 1 and will remain there until Sept. 1. The team will then move to a practice site in Cincinnati.

And Brown indicated he would like to have veteran kicking specialist Lou Groza around as a part-time coaching consultant. Groza is with the Cleveland Browns.

"I have kidded Lou several times about serving as a part-time coach with me," Brown told the Cincinnati Enquirer.

'No Regrets'

Taylor Will Just be a Fan When Old Packers Teammates Seek Title

By JOHN S. LANG
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — There will be no cheers for Jim Taylor, no prize money either, when his old teammates fight for the world championship of professional football this year.

"I'll just be a fan in the stands," says Taylor, whose performances in five title games set records for the most carries, for yards rushing and for combined rushing and receiving yardage.

"But I have no regrets at all," Taylor, who played out his contract with Green Bay and signed last season with the National Football League's new-born New Orleans Saints, says he will be content to watch the Packers play the AFL champion Oakland Raiders in the Super Bowl at Miami Jan. 14.

Are Close Friends "I'm very happy Green Bay won the league title," Taylor says. "The players are close friends, and I'm glad they got the opportunity to cash in on the extra money—probably about $25,000."

"But I'm not sorry I wasn't part of the NFL championship game. I wasn't really itching to get in that 13 below zero weather."

Playing this past season for the Saints, Taylor, 32, had what was statistically his worst of 10 years in pro football.

Rushing, he carried 130 times for 390 yards and 3.0 average. As a receiver, he carried 38 times for 251 yards and a 6.7 yard average. He scored only 12 points.

By comparison, in his nine years with Green Bay, Taylor established a record for the most consecutive seasons—five—with 1,000 or more yards rushing, had an over-all average of 4.5 yards per carry and a season average of 81 points scored.

"I enjoyed my first year with the Saints. It was a very interesting year. I'm very happy to be with the Saints and very happy I made the decision to go with them," Taylor says.

What about the lower average?

"There's no comparison," Taylor says. The Saints manage to agree.

Added Experience

"Taylor's contributions," explained a spokesman, "primarily in giving added experience in the backfield of young team. Obviously of Taylor's magnitude keyed on by our opponent most successful running are those behind an experienced line."

"While our offensive line formed creditably, it didn't have the experience of most we faced. And Jimmy's Green Bay was pretty tact for eight or nine years."

Taylor admits his performance was something of a letdown, adding, "Oh, I guess I had just a fair year."

"Certainly, I'm optimistic we'll be able to play better this season. Certainly, we made progress last season."

During the off-season, Taylor will manage his constant company in Baton Rouge, La., in May or June before heading home to Baton Rouge, La., to get in shape—a leg process in his home town involving countless sprints up and down the LSU Stadium under the Louisiana sun.

At age 32, is getting it more painful? Have 10 years of charging through "The Slowed him any?"

"I don't feel like I'm slowing down at all," he replies, "I'm slowing without irritation."

"It's not really harder in shape as I get older—start a little earlier, work the slower until I'm ready to pour it on, and then I'm in the same form as the year before."

"No, they're not hitting harder, not really. It's the same this year as it was years ago. I want to play three seasons more. I'm in them in me."

Packers Plan More Field Improvements

Post-Crescent News Service

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Rumors have been rife of late that Vince Lombardi is going to retire after Sunday's Super Bowl in neighboring Miami, and maybe he will do just that.

But the Pack's 54-year-old head coach and general manager is not talking like a man contemplating such a move.

There was, at least, no indication he is planning to call it a

Hilbert	Wrightstown	2	3	66.0	64.8
Wrightstown	Freedom	1	4	64.2	77.2

Games Tonight (All non-conf.):

Chilton at Brillion
Hortonville at Weyauwega
Valders at Reedsville
Wrightstown at Shiocton
Wrightstown at St. Nazianz

Games Friday:
Reedsville at Shiocton
Omro at Hortonville
Hilbert at Brillion
Denmark at Wrightstown
Winnecoon at Freedom

Game Saturday:
Berlin at Omro (Non-Conf.)

A 32-point performance by Tom Christianson was instrumental in helping Winnecoon stay tied for the Little Nine Conference lead last week, and the effort has also boosted the forward to the top in the individual scoring race.

Christianson, slightly-built at 6'0 and 150 pounds, had his best night of the conference season to pace Winnecoon to a 72-66 triumph over Wrightstown for the Wolves' fourth win in five outings. The star senior now has fired in 118 points, including 61 in his last two games, for a 23.6 average.

The runner-up spot this week belongs to Shiocton's Gary Johnson, who hit 21 points in the Chiefs' hectic 82-81 defeat at the hands of Omro. Johnson, a 6-2 senior, trails Christianson by five points, with 113 for 22.6 points per game.

Tom Ribarchek of Wrightstown is third with 106 markers, followed closely by a trio of players — Dan Gast of Shiocton, Randy Wade of Omro, and Joe Weinreis of Hilbert — all with 105. Weinreis poured in 37 against Reedsville for the loop's individual high to date. Wade is the lone sophomore among the leaders.

All the top scorers will get opportunities to improve their records this week, as the Little Nine slates round No. 6 of play in the circuit Friday night.

Non-League Games

Before Friday's action, however, five teams are set for non-conference battles tonight. Reedsville looks to avenge an earlier 66-61 defeat by Valders on the Panthers' court; Hortonville goes to Weyauwega; Hilbert journeys to Mishicot to face the Holmes' brothers act; Brillion plays host to Chilton; and Wrightstown tries to duplicate a 65-41 win posted earlier over St. Nazianz. St. Gregory, this time on the Seminary's court.

Omro gets a second shot at Berlin, too, Saturday night on the Foxes' floor. Berlin captured a 70-60 victory at the start of the season.

In the top conference fray Friday evening, Shiocton will bid to get back into title consideration when it entertains Reedsville, one of three clubs deadlocked for the top of the standings. Another tussle could be in the works at Hortonville, where the Polar Bears entertain Omro. The Foxes, like Reedsville, own a 4-1 record.

Winnecoon should have the easiest assignment of the trio of top teams, as the Wolves travel to Freedom. The Irish remain the only club without a win, and what's more, have a string of 26 consecutive losses (18 in conference play).

Other games find revamped Denmark at Wrightstown, and Hilbert at Brillion. The Vikings career when the inevitable question arose Monday at a press luncheon here.

"I have no answer to that," Lombardi replied. "I don't know. I suppose everybody has to retire sometime, but I don't know."

He paused briefly, then added, "I feel good, physically. I think, however, it would be impossible for me to handle the jobs of general manager and head coach if I didn't have such a good staff, such a good organization that has been built up over the years."

"Anyone who says he can do both jobs today is blowing smoke... from a $600,000 business in 1958, there is a $5 million business today — and that's true not only of the Packers. It's the same with everybody else, give or take a few hundred thousand dollars or so."

"I'm not saying there is anything special about me, because I am doing them both. I only can because we have such a good organization."

Earlier in the press conference, Lombardi indicated he is looking beyond Sunday in a Packers contest — at least as a general manager.

During a discussion of Lambeau Field's new "electric blanket," he was asked if any further stadium projects are in the offing.

"We're going to try to improve our facilities," he said. "In the next couple of years, we're going to redo our press box — expand it and put in arm chairs."

He chuckled and continued, "All these years, I've had a bad image with the press, so I'm going to try to change it."

Serious once again, he appended, "And we hope, in the near future, to plastic-cover the seats."

(Plastic, presumably, is longer lasting than the all-wood seating in use at Lambeau Field.)

The "electric blanket," Lombardi said, "was a very successful operation — we just have to use a different tarp. Moisture forms between the tarp and the turf and freezes — that is what caused the field problems we had for the championship game."

"It was soft a little beneath the turf, but there was a hard crust on the surface... I was disappointed in its operation for that particular day, but it is a very successful operation."

This subject subsequently triggered the question of moving the National Football League championship game to a neutral, warm-weather site, a matter revived by the Dallas Cowboys in the wake of their sub-zero 21-17 loss to the Packers in the title game at Green Bay Dec. 31.

"I doubt that Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Green Bay will vote for that," Lombardi said.

"I don't speak for them, but I doubt if they would."

Under NFL by-laws, 13 of 16 member clubs would have to vote in favor of such a proposal to bring about a move.

Committee to Study Problem

Petitioners Demand Better AHS-W Practice Facilities for Football

A special committee to investigate a strong request for a solution to the unusually hard-surfaced Appleton High School-West practice football field was appointed by the Board of Education Monday night.

The request was in the form of a petition, signed by more than 240 parents and district residents, and was presented by James Burke, a representative of the West Quarterback Club.

The petition originated in November in the Club.

The board asked that the committee report by March.

Result of Poor Field

Burke contended that because of the hard field, which drains too well, players were "afraid to hit." He said that many of the boys had bruises, skin abrasions and "scabs on their elbows" during the entire season.

"And I believe that some of the more serious injuries were probably indirectly the result of the poor field," he said.

School officials agreed but explained that there are no substitute locations to use during the time the practice field would be repaired.

William Pickett, director of physical education, health and safety, explained that the field had been a swamp when he joined the system in 1926 and that in 1937 an extensive tiling was used to make the field suitable.

Crushed rock was used for the base in the tiling and annual freezing and upheaval have slowly brought this nearer to the surface, he explained.

The engineers did an excellent job in creating drainage; in fact, the drainage is so good there is not sufficient soaking

Pickett said.

Pickett and Herbert Simon, west high athletic director, both mentioned a possible substitute field near the West practice field and referred to it as "the orchard." They said this may Association, will coach the East Division and Babe McCarthy will direct the West.

Hagan May Start

Probable starters for the East and doubles handball tournaments, co-sponsored by the Appleton Recreation Department Association, the New York guard Don Freeman of Minneapolis and the Appleton YMCA, must Knicks won their fourth straight forward Roger Brown of Indiana, and forward Connie Hawkins of Pittsburgh.

The West probably will open Jan. 19, while doubles action with Levern Tart, the league's star Feb. 2. The tourneys are open only to local players who live or work in Appleton. The completed entry blank must be submitted by 5 p.m. Friday. All matches will be played at Seattle in the only game scheduled in the city.

Burke said the "regardless of cost" phrase did keep some people from signing the petition but the Quarterback Club members felt this should be left in to indicate the definite interest that action be taken.

Supt. of Schools William Spears commented that he knew of no formal request within the school system for improving the practice field.

He explained that such a request should have come from the faculty to the department head and then to the building principal.

Members of the special committee are Spears; Jerome Boettcher, west high principal; Pickett; Simon; William Knuth, director of business affairs, and Jay J. Parish, West Quarterback Club president, who appeared at the board meeting with Burke.

ABA All-Star Game Tonight

League to Display Innovations Before Color TV Audience

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The new American Basketball Association — with a multicolor ball and three-point basket — stages its first All-Star game here tonight.

The most eye-catching of the ABA's innovations — the red, white and blue ball — will get its first major television exposure in a color telecast to be shown on the National Football League's other 10 cities, plus Los Angeles and New York.

More than 12,000 tickets have been sold by the first Indiana Pacers for the game in the 14,900-seat Hinkle Field House of Butler University.

The three-point basket, made from beyond 25 feet, has been a headline-maker for the ABA.

The most electrifying shot was when Indiana's Jerry Harkness heaved the ball 92 feet for a three-pointer that beat Dallas in the final second.

Fred Lewis, another Indiana player who will be in the East line-up tonight, almost brought the Pacers a victory over Minnesota Sunday. He scored a trio of three-point goals in the last two minutes that helped cut a 17-point Muskies lead to two.

Jim Pollard, the former all-field near the West practice field and referred to it as "the orchard." They said this may Association, will coach the East Division and Babe McCarthy will direct the West.

Pickett explained further that the practice field is in constant use by students, including about 125 football players. It's used from 8.15 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily by physical education classes and then the team practices on it, he said.

Explaining the petition further, Burke noted the phrase, "request, yes demand" which he said meant the signers were emphatic in the request.

"We didn't want to dress this with flowery words because we want immediate steps taken to reduce this risk of injury," he explained.

Burke said the "regardless of cost" phrase did keep some people from signing the petition but the Quarterback Club members felt this should be left in to indicate the definite interest that action be taken.

Supt. of Schools William Spears commented that he knew of no formal request within the school system for improving the practice field.

Ron Smith on Block?

Falcons' Owner Denies Racial Discrimination

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons' owner Rankin Smith, players regardless of race.

Smith was tried at cornerback and at split end "and didn't make it." He noted Smith was replaced respectively by Ken Leavell and Jerry Simmons, officially referred to reports that both Negroes. He called it "a matter of judgment and not discrimination."

The Falcons carried five Negro players on their roster throughout most of the 1967 season and near the end activated two other Negroes.

The Atlanta Falcons have the lowest number of Negro players in the NFL, and have noted over the last two years that several highly talented Negroes have been traded to the Los Angeles Rams.

The NAACP chapter Monday, and at split end "and didn't make it." He noted Smith was replaced respectively by Ken Leavell and Jerry Simmons, officially referred to reports that both Negroes. He called it "a matter of judgment and not discrimination."

This morning we were shocked and bewildered to read that Ron Smith may be traded. The racial policy of the Falcons through its past and present actions is open to question," the communication said.

Points to Coffey

Smith said he telephoned Davis to assure him "we don't have a racial policy." We are

Pipers Nearer To First Place In ABA's East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh's 15-game winning string recently was snapped but the Pipers have quickly started another streak—one game-to-edge within nine percentage points of first place in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

Chico Vaughn's 15-foot jump shot with two seconds remaining gave the Pipers a 109-107 road victory over Houston while first-place Minnesota was losing a 107-103 decision at Kentucky. New Jersey topped Anaheim 124-118 at Portland, Ore.,

The completed entry blank must be submitted by 5 p.m. Friday. All matches will be played at Seattle in the only game scheduled in the city.

Burke said the "regardless of cost" phrase did keep some people from signing the petition but the Quarterback Club members felt this should be left in to indicate the definite interest that action be taken.

LEGAL NOTICES

$1,500.000
Joint School District No. 6 Village of Kimberly, Wisconsin School Bonds

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Joint School District No. 6, Village of Kimberly and Combined Locks, Towns of Buchanan and Harrison, Calumet and Outagamie Counties, Wisconsin, will receive sealed bids until 1 00 o'clock P. M., C. S. T., on Wednesday, January 31, 1968, for the purchase of its $1,500,000 School Bonds, dated February 1, 1968, all of the bonds to be of a denomination of $5,000 unless otherwise specified. The purchaser of the bonds within 48 hours after the sale thereof, and maturing serially in numerical order without option of prior redemption on May 1 of each of the years 1968 to 1983 inclusive, as follows:

Year	Amount
1968	$50,000
1969	100,000
1970	100,000
1971	100,000
1972	100,000
1973	100,000
1974	100,000
1975	100,000
1976	100,000
1977	100,000
1978	100,000
1979	100,000
1980	100,000
1981	100,000
1982	100,000
1983	100,000

Said bonds and the coupons thereon will be payable at a bank or banks to be designated by the purchaser. The bonds will be registered with the principal place of issue at the principal place of issue, and the principal place of issue will be payable on November 1 and May 1 of each year. Bidders are requested to specify the denomination of the bonds and the interest rate or rates the bonds are to bear. Five basic rates may be used, but the maturity of the issue may not be split more than five ways for the purpose of designating those rates. Rates are to be integral, and the coupon rate may not exceed 6 per cent per annum. Interest payable on any bond on any interest payment date shall be represented by one coupon only. No supplemental coupons are allowed. There are no other rate restrictions. No bid will be considered for less than par and accrued interest for all of the bonds. Any premium must be paid in bank funds as a part of the purchase price.

Unless all bids are rejected the bonds will be awarded by the District Board on the sale date to the bidder whose bid is the lowest net interest cost to the district to be determined by computing total interest on all of the bonds when ready for delivery and deducting therefrom the premium bid if any.

Bids accompanied by a certified check or bank cashier's or treasurer's check in the amount of $50,000 payable to the District Treasurer as a guarantee of good faith to be forfeited to said district by the successful bidder as liquidated damages should he fail to take delivery of the bonds when ready. The good faith check of the bidder whose proposal is accepted will be held uncashed until delivery of the bonds, and the purchaser of the bonds when ready of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the determination of the highest bid. Said bonds will be the direct general obligations of said school district payable from unlimited ad valorem taxes, and are issued for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of school buildings and the erection and equipping of school buildings.

The unqualified approving opinion of the auditor of the district together with bid bond transcript, including a negotiation certificate dated as of the date of delivery of the bonds will be furnished to the purchaser at the expense of the district. The district will provide for the printed bonds at its own expense, including the printing of the legal opinion thereon.

The bonds are expected to be ready for delivery within forty days after the sale. Delivery anywhere in the continental United States will be made at the expense of the district.

Bids should be addressed to the undersigned District Clerk, Kimberly, Wisconsin, and should be submitted in a sealed envelope marked "Bids for Bonds". Copies of the official statement may be obtained from the undersigned or from T. G. Evensen & Associates, Inc., First National Bank Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55402. The bids will be publicly opened and announced at the Village Board Room in the Village Hall, Kimberly, Wisconsin, at the date and hour specified above.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive informalities in the bid.

$190 Billion U.S. Budget Expected

Rise Due to Domestic, War Costs

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spending in the new-style budget now being prepared for submission to Congress late this month will reportedly reach or exceed $190 billion. Indications are there will be increased spending for both the Vietnam war and domestic programs.

An official in a position to know said the spending figure will definitely remain below $200 billion for the fiscal year which begins next July 1 under the unified budget concept to be presented to Congress for the first time this month.

If the same system had been in use last January a spending program of $175.5 billion would have been presented to Congress for the current fiscal year.

Already on Books

The new budget format will include spending not only in the more familiar administrative budget but also spending under the huge government-operated trust funds such as Social Security highways and unemployment compensation.

The administration is attributing the increased spending figure planned for next year's budget to higher costs of programs already on the books such as welfare, medicare payments to states and government pay raises as well as Vietnam war costs.

Over-all defense spending is expected to total roughly $73 billion during the current fiscal year and although no figures for next year have been revealed it's expected to rise another $4 billion—with the increase ticketed for the Vietnam war.

Not Comparable

Spending in previous budgets is not exactly comparable to the $190 billion range of spending now contemplated since the administration decided to incorporate in the new budget the recommendations of a special presidential commission created one year ago.

For comparative purposes, however, the source said spending under the old-style administrative budget would range between $145 billion and $150 billion if that system were still in use.

Killed in Action

OSHKOSH (AP) — The Defense Department reported Monday that Army Sgt. James J. Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oshkosh, was his second-floor apartment. In minutes the building was engulfed in flames, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Director Charles L. Schultze of the Budget Bureau has become the second top presidential economic adviser to resign within a week.

Schultze's resignation—effective after the new budget is presented to Congress—was announced Monday night by the Texas White House seven days after it reported that Gardner Ackley would step down as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Named by Johnson to succeed Schultze in the $30,000-a-year post was Charles J. Zwick, 41, currently assistant Budget Bureau director.

Taught at Harvard Zwick was described as Schultze's "principal assistant and adviser on economic policy matters."

A native of Plantsville, Conn., Zwick formerly taught economics at Harvard University. He joined the Budget Bureau in October 1965 after working for the Rand Corp., Santa Monica, California.

Ackley was named ambassador to Italy. Schultze plans to join the Brookings Institution, a private research organization based in Washington, and to return to part-time teaching at the University of Maryland, where he formerly taught economics.

Schultze, 43, said he began talking about leaving the director's job as early as last June but agreed to stay on until completion of work on the new budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

That is scheduled for presentation to Congress Jan. 29. The director said his leaving should not be construed as any break with the administration over economic policy. Schultze said he agrees with that policy and endorses the 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposed by Johnson last Aug. 3.

"I'm just plain tired," he said. He has been in the Budget Bureau for five years, first as assistant director, and since June 1, 1965, as director. It is considered one of the most demanding jobs in government.

NEW YORK (AP) — Flames raced through a Brooklyn tenement in the predawn hours today, forcing scores of persons to flee in below-zero cold and leaving 13 dead. All but one member of two families perished.

Dead in the city's worst fire since 46 died aboard an aircraft carrier in 1960 were Mrs. Modesta Diaz and her five children, aged 3 months to 9 years; Francisco and Juanita Mojica and their four children, aged 4 to 9 years, and 85-year-old Victoria Moreno, the grandmother of the Mojica children.

Francisco Diaz, 29, the only surviving member of his family, said he was watching television Monday when his children when he saw smoke flowing under the door of his second-floor apartment. In minutes the building was engulfed in flames, he said.

Diaz said he tried to open a window, but panicky children and their elders barred the way.

Diaz said he shouted to the Mojica family to follow him as he ran to the roof of the burning structure. When he saw no sign of them, he said, he jumped to safety to the roof of an adjoining building.

Quick action by police and firemen saved other tenants to-day. Patrolman Ralph Sorrenti, one of the first on the scene, said he ran to the alley in the rear where men and women on the second floor began throwing children to him.

He said he caught at least 20 children but missed others. "It was so difficult stumbling through the ice and darkness. One woman who jumped fell on him, he said.

Saved by Firemen A man and a woman perched on a third-floor ledge against a blazing backdrop were plucked to safety by firemen with the aid of a ladder.

Police said 14 firemen, two policemen and 15 civilians were treated for a variety of injuries at Greenpoint Hospital.

The temperature stood at a record low of 2 degrees for the day when the fire broke out about 12:30 a.m. and fell to 1 degree later. Neighbors threw blankets out of windows to the evacuees.

Some 195 firemen crunched along in ankle-high ice as they used some 39 pieces of equipment to fight the blaze. Firemen said flames at the outset were so fierce they could not enter the building.

The fire department said the blaze apparently started in the ground floor paper carton factory and spread swiftly upward through the tenement which was home for 24 families.

Powell said he would talk at the University of California at Los Angeles Wednesday. Later talks are scheduled at the University of Michigan, Duke, the University of Florida and other colleges and universities, he said.

He said he was asking the federal courts "to rule on the law and not on racism" in his case.

Asked about his next move against Congress, Powell said: "When the legal angles have all been exhausted before all the courts in New York, the District of Columbia and the Supreme Court, and I still don't think justice has been done, then I'm going to blow the whistle on Congress."

Since being ousted for misusing government funds, Powell has said that other congressmen misused funds.

Powell said the only Republican ticket which could beat President Johnson would be Rockefeller-Reagan—"in that order."

But he predicted that Richard Nixon would win the GOP nomination "and if he does, that's the end of the Republicans. Man, he's had it! That cat's beat!"

Jaycee 'Boss' Banquet Set In Seymour

SEYMOUR — The second annual Jaycee "Bosses' Night" banquet to honor community industrial and business leaders, has been scheduled Jan. 22.

Robert Houle, industrial development chairman for Green Bay will be the speaker, according to David Johnson, president.

Nominations are being taken by the club for the outstanding citizen of the community. Johnson said all nominations are made outside the organization, and that both men and women are expected to be nominated. The project is jointly sponsored by the Jaycees and "The Press."

Nominees will be judged on work with youth, community development and civic contributions.

Trinity Congregation Re-Elects Officers at Meeting in Nichols

NICHOLS — Officers of the Trinity United Church of Christ were re-elected at the annual meeting Sunday at the church here.

They are Lester Boman, clerk; Maude Schinke, treasurer; Marcela Hahn, financial secretary and treasurer; Earl Carpenter and Dewayne Heckenlaible, trustees; Carpenter and Boman, deacons, and Mrs. Boman and Mrs. Heckenlaible, deaconesses.

Board Told of Funding For Vocational Classes

State Aid Available for Two Chilton Courses; Registration Fees Pay for Balance

CHILTON — Three of the vocational courses taught at the high school will be reimbursed with state funds, according to Supt. A. W. Gordon, who discussed the vocational program at Monday night's board of education meeting.

The courses are beginning clothing, shorthand and typing. They are offered at a fee of $2 per course.

Other courses that will be offered are cake decorating, painting, advanced knitting, beginning knitting, ceramics, continuing education and upholstery. The fee for each of these courses is $7 and no state funds are received.

Extend Contract
The course in contemporary affairs is offered for one-fourth of a high school credit. For credit, enrollees must be non-high school graduates and at least 19 years old.

Seymour Council Refuses Action on Street Paving

Green Street Delegation Told To Wait Until New Council Meets

SEYMOUR — An accepted budget for new street construction and a new council due to take over in April kept the present city council and a delegation from the southern end of Green Street from reaching an agreement Monday night.

The delegation, living in a newly developed area, asked for blacktopping of Green Street, but the council refused to make any commitment that would bind aldermen to be elected in spring.

The new portion of Green Street has had curb and gutter installed. This is paid for by a special assessment against property owners. Paving is paid for by the city with funds allocated in the budget.

Bernie Meyer, acting as spokesman for the group, tried to find out if the project was being considered. Mayor Ben Troyman said this wouldn't be known until after the organizational meeting of the new council. He said following the first meeting, the council would consider all new streets and it would be its prerogative to decide where the budgeted funds would be spent.

Verbal Agreements
Meyer said the paving had been considered last summer but all agreements were verbal. The group wanted to know if they were being considered at all.

About the only satisfaction the council could give was that a dressing of some type would be applied to the street if it wasn't paved. Troyman said this would be necessary to eliminate the dust problem.

Meyer based his argument on approximately 18,000 of unanticipated revenue received by the city. He said if half of this was earmarked, the paving could be completed. Earl Gosse, public works director, had previously noted the estimated cost of the project was $9,840.

This year's budget has $20,000 for street repairs and about $8,000 for new street construction.

Other Board Action
In other action the council approved purchase of a used street sweeper from Mid-States

Smokehouse, Hams Burn At Marion

MARION — The fire department was called to the Eugene Loken farm, route 1, Sunday evening when the smokehouse caught fire.

The building was destroyed and the hams that were being smoked were ruined.

Late Thursday night a house-trailer parked near the garage at the Little Falls tavern was destroyed by fire. Firemen fought the blaze to keep it from spreading to the adjacent garage. Adolph Carlson, who lived in the trailer, lost all his belongings. There was no estimate of damage. The trailer was not insured.

Flu Restricts Hospital Visits

WAUPACA — Restrictions have been placed on visitors at Riverside Hospital and to residents of Bethany Nursing Home because of influenza which is approaching epidemic proportions in many areas.

Only members of the immediate family may visit hospital patients.

A tuberculosis testing program at Bethany Home has been temporarily postponed because of sickness in the area.

Equipment Company, Green Bay, for $5,000.

Completion of the transaction hinges on the legality of buying the equipment without seeking bids. City Atty. Michael Burns was instructed to check the statutes before completing the transaction.

All aldermen inspected the machine and along with Gosse felt the sweeper was worth the price. Gosse said a new machine of this type would cost $13,500.

In other business the council: —Approved seeking bids for a new police car. Bids will be opened Jan. 29.

—Was asked by the mayor to submit names for appointment to the park and recreation committee at the next meeting.

Stamps With Food Sales Ruled Illegal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON, Wis. — Trading stamps cannot be legally issued by merchants in Wisconsin in sales involving minimum mark-up items such as groceries, the state bureau of consumer practices has advised the Wisconsin Association of Food Dealers.

J. L. Agnes of the division explained that under Wisconsin law such stamps are redeemable only in cash, and when issued with grocery sales serve to reduce the price of the merchandise. Thus when such items are sold at the legal minimum mark-up there is a violation of the State Unfair Sales Act, the official advised the trade group, and would be subject to prosecution under that law.

Established by Legislature Mayor George Buckley said today the City of Appleton would present its case for several statewide reforms, with emphasis on better annexation and a share-l-a-x distribution laws.

Buckley said he invited mayors and representatives of other Fox Valley cities to come here to testify before the committee — established by the 1967 Legislature and slated to report back its findings and recommendations by 1969.

"I don't think the tentative schedule of appearances really means too much," was the observation of City Planner Walter Rasmussen, who noted the hearings were open to all citizens of the region.

Governmental spokesmen were asked in advance by the Tarr Committee to supply briefs on their positions to be taken at the hearings.

"No one should think they will be excluded from appearing before the Tarr Task Force because of a tentative appearance schedule," Mayor Buckley commented, "the general public is invited to participate and will be heard."

Other Appearances
The schedule of the Tarr Committee discloses that several town and rural representatives who intend to testify have put in appearances at similar hearings held previously at Milwaukee and Eau Claire.

On Wednesday morning some of the witnesses will include: Ben Hannemann, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Towns Association; Roland Kamp, chairman of the Town of Menasha and registered lobbyist; Myron P. Lotto, Brown County Board chairman; Jerome E. Martin, Manitowish County Board chairman; and Patrick DeWane, attorney for the Town of Two Creeks.

Two Creeks recently was catapulted into the limelight when utilities elected the town for multi-million dollar nuclear power plant projects which will result in the community getting utility tax rebates from the state of well over a half-million dollars, a sum equal to $2.187 per person.

Supervisor Won't Be Candidate

CLINTONVILLE — Leonard H. Rohrer, 85 Rohrer St., 16th District supervisor, Fourth Ward, Clintonville, announced Monday he would not seek reelection to the Waupaca County Board.

Rohrer will have completed 12 years on the board in the spring and has decided to retire. He also has been on the County Health and Welfare Committee for 12 years.

Manawa — There has been no shipment received of the new 6-cent stamps and the present supply will last only through today.

Hilbert — The office has plenty of 1, 2 and 6-cent stamps having anticipated the change before Christmas and ordered at the time. A shipment of new stamps arrived today.

Potter — An extra order in anticipation of the change helped pull the office through the heavy demand period.

Battle Lines Set For Tarr Hearings

Towns and cities have started finger at the Two Creeks to choose sides and are expected to trade verbal blows before the Tarr Task Force when it holds public hearings here Wednesday and Thursday at Appleton City Hall.

A tentative agenda for the two-day hearing on local government finance and organization shows that rural forces will be out in numbers.

Most of those scheduled to testify Wednesday either represent the towns or county boards, and the Thursday morning agenda lists the appearance of public school officials in the region interested in aid formulas to education.

Established by Legislature Mayor George Buckley said today the City of Appleton would present its case for several statewide reforms, with emphasis on better annexation and a share-l-a-x distribution laws.

CLINTONVILLE — Leonard H. Rohrer, 85 Rohrer St., 16th District supervisor, Fourth Ward, Clintonville, announced Monday he would not seek reelection to the Waupaca County Board.

Rohrer will have completed 12 years on the board in the spring and has decided to retire. He also has been on the County Health and Welfare Committee for 12 years.

Manawa — There has been no shipment received of the new 6-cent stamps and the present supply will last only through today.

Hilbert — The office has plenty of 1, 2 and 6-cent stamps having anticipated the change before Christmas and ordered at the time. A shipment of new stamps arrived today.

Potter — An extra order in anticipation of the change helped pull the office through the heavy demand period.

Timetable To be Done By April 2

NEW LONDON — Electors of the school district will have an opportunity to vote on a referendum on bonding for a new elementary school during the spring elections in April, the board of education decided Monday.

Stephen L. Beyer, a member of Werner, Egl and Beyer law firm, was designated by the board as legal counsel for preparing the referendum question and meeting legal requirements.

Preliminary plans presented on a floor layout by Edgar A. Steubenrauch, Inc., Sheboygan architectural firm, were well received by the board.

Eugene Fuhrmann said the idea presented was good, but could be more compact. Other board members questioned whether enough teaching stations were included in proposals. A suggestion to add two more teaching rooms was offered by the board for further consideration.

Time Schedule
H. James Ramsdell, superintendent, said establishing a time schedule was "most pressing" if the board wanted to hold a referendum April 2.

A second written report on school board thinking, surveys and studies and proposed timetable for developments was reviewed by the board.

A monthly schedule calls for studying preliminary building plans, developing public information on the school, consulting with the elementary staff with features of the building and establishing a cost estimate by the architect in January.

Legal work for the referendum and revision of building plans is scheduled for February; publishing legal notices and release of data on the proposed school and debt-plan would be done in March and the referendum conducted in April.

Finalized Plans

Plans would be finalized in May, bids awarded in June or July and construction started in July or August. The project would be completed in August, 1969, in time for the 1969-70 school year.

Plans are for the kindergarten through third grade portion of the K-6 school to be developed along traditional educational patterns for construction.

Construction of the intermediate teaching area is proposed to be more of an open area to allow team-teaching or separate teaching.

Ramsdell said that the open areas, designed to stimulate creative, free expression work, had proven successful in other schools.

Traditional System
The traditional system, with a limited number of students in one area, taught by one teacher and little outside help, stifles fourth and sixth graders who are at the peak of their learning and inquisitive stage, he said.

Plans for the new school are being geared for 20 years from now, Ramsdell said, because the building will still be in use at that time.

Preliminary plans propose a 34,225 square foot structure with 12 teaching stations, a multi-purpose room, special education area, library resource center, gymnasium and storage, office and work areas.

Police Investigate Break-in Attempt

NEW LONDON — An attempted break-in at Lippold and Queeman Grocery, 303 W. Pine St., Saturday night is being investigated by city police.

Roy Queeman, part owner of the store, reported the attempt to city police about 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

Police said a basement window on the west side of the building was broken but a steel bar prevented entry.

$325 Loss Estimated In New London Crash

NEW LONDON — Damage was estimated at $325 in a two-car accident about 9 a.m. Monday at Division and Millard streets.

City police said a car driven by Mrs. Gerald Norby, 1365 Division St., was legally parked at the curb when a northbound car on Division Street, driven by Diane D. Lathrop, route 1, skidded on ice and struck the Norby vehicle in the rear.

Municipal Justice To Seek Re-Election

KAUKAUNA — Clarence O'Connor, 223 Taylor St., took out nomination papers for reelection as municipal justice Monday.

O'Connor will be seeking a second term, having won in a 3-way race in 1966.

A City Snow Plow was needed today for the first time this year to clear the River. Monday night's heavy snowfall blanketed the ice. (Connors Photo)

A 52-51 victory by Pulaski over previously-unbeaten Sturgeon Bay last Friday night has thrown the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference race into a turmoil, and thanks to the upset, Bonduel's surging Bears can rank among five teams currently in the thick of the fight.

Bonduel, an easy 84-59 winner against Ashwaubenon in its last outing, plays host to West De Pere tonight to start another busy week of NEW action. Coach John Reinke's club now owns a 5-2 record, good for a fourth-place tie with high-scoring Algoma.

The Bears will be gunning for their third straight win in facing the Phantoms, who possess a 3-4 mark and stand at the top of the second division. Friday night, Bonduel meets De Pere's tough Redbirds at the Brown County Arena. De Pere, Pulaski and Sturgeon Bay are all tied for the top with 6-1 records to date.

Carl Ibe's Seymour cagers, meantime, try to come off the deck after being beaten, 83-52, by Kewaunee on the road. Guard Dennis Murphy, the team's top scorer the week before, hit just three free throws in the loss.

The Indians should have a good opportunity to make amends tonight, when they travel to winless Ashwaubenon. The Jaguars, now 0-7, share the league basement with Bay Port. If Seymour wins, it will break a 3-game league losing skein.

A much bigger scalp, however, presents itself for the taking Friday night, when Sturgeon Bay invades the Seymour gym. The Clippers will come in heavy favorites.

Weigh Public Interest

Valley TV Station Studied

An Appleton group called the Fox Cities Enterprises has indicated interest in establishing a UHF television station here to serve the Fox Cities region and is drumming up support, it was learned Monday.

Frank E. Drexler, 1406 S. Telulah St., chairman of Fox Cities Enterprises (FCE), said application forms have been obtained from the Federal Communications Commission.

He said if the group decides to go ahead with the UHF television station, it would request a permit to have channel 32 which has been allotted to Appleton.

"Our first goal will be better coverage of local news and events," Drexler said.

He explained details of the proposed communications project in an interview on a local radio station this noon.

Drexler said before the group files for channel 32 it intends to conduct engineering studies and marketing analyses.

Some Interest

"We have received information from the FCC which would indicate the possibility of a market for purely the Fox Cities region does exist for the kind of television we would present," Drexler said.

Asked about financing, Drexler said several individuals have indicated interest.

"If it is shown the people of the region want a UHF station with strictly regional programming, we anticipate no problem with financing," Drexler added.

The Fox Cities region is currently served by regional TV stations at Green Bay.

Several years ago Neenah had a UHF TV station but it went off the air. However, FCC officials feel that "times have changed and UHF could survive here."

Romney Is the Underdog in Wife's Speech

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the Michigan governor, opened the 1968 presidential wars here Monday calling her husband an "underdog," but a straight arrow while the governor himself was in the east preparing for the New Hampshire primary.

The slim, personable Mrs. Romney, a former actress, spoke to about 150 students and faculty Monday afternoon at the University of Wisconsin Center and to about 250 students and adults that evening at St. Norbert College.

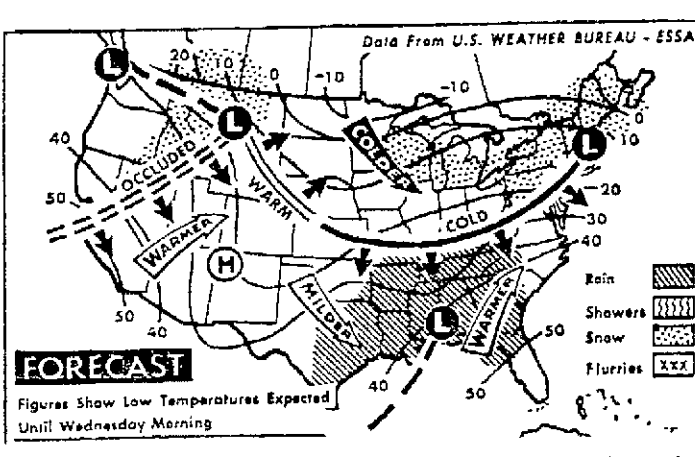

She said "The overriding issue in my husband's campaign will be definitely Vietnam." However, she declined to state his position, saying only he will make a major speech on the matter within two weeks.

She added that other issues which will be stressed by the three time governor of Wisconsin's neighboring state will be problems of urban centers, inflation and fiscal responsibility and the credibility gap.

Meanwhile, in Washington Monday, Romney hinted he will take a somewhat hawkish position on the war by saying we should not halt the bombing of North Vietnam without evidence it would lead to a satisfactory peace.

Mrs. Romney described her husband as "a conservative in financial matters, but a liberal concerning human beings."

Romney is the first to declare his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President. His wife said he considers Richard Nixon his chief competition. Romney, Nixon, Harold Stassen and possibly California Gov. Ronald Reagan may compete in the Wisconsin primary election April 2.

Lutherans Plan Annual Meetings

AMHERST — Annual congregational meetings have been scheduled at Peace Lutheran here and Nelsonville Lutheran churches.

Officers will be elected and budgets presented for the coming year. The Nelsonville church meeting will be Jan. 15 and the Amherst church will meet Jan. 16, both starting at 8 p.m. A. P. Tidemann is pastor of the two churches.

Holy Name Workshop Set Jan. 21 in Oneida

LEBANON — The annual Holy Name Society mid-year workshop will be held Sunday, Jan. 21, at the Sacred Heart Seminary in Oneida. The theme is "Putting Vatican II into Practice."

Registration begins at noon with the session ending at 4:30 p.m. Mass will be said at 4:45 p.m., optional for those in attendance.

Valley Post Offices Face Stamp Shortage

There has been a heavy demand for 1 and 6-cent stamps but the supply is sufficient to meet local needs.

Stockbridge — There are no 6 cent stamps available but the supply of 1-cent stamps should help tide the office over until the new shipment arrives.

Hortonville — No 5 or 1-cent stamps are left. The office supply of stamps is generally low except for 2, 3, and 4-cent stamps. The stamps were ordered two weeks ago.

Brillion — No new 6-cent stamps in yet and 1-centers are gone. The office has an adequate supply of 2, 3 and 4-cent stamps to make substitute combinations.

Fremont — The office is out of 1 and 6-cent stamps but the supply of 2, 3 and 4-cent stamps remains good. No 6-cent stamps were received. A bulk shipment was ordered before the first of the year and has not arrived.

New Holstein — Patrons of this post office will be asked to purchase only stamps needed for immediate use as a partial ration is applied. The supply of 1 and 6-cent stamps remains good. The bulk order from Washington took about a week. The demand for one centers is heavier than anticipated.

Village Kiwanis to Install New Officers

KIMBERLY — Lt. Gov. Irv Curry, Kaukauna, will install officers at a dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Darboy Club.

New directors and committee chairmen will meet following the dinner to discuss the year's programs and projects. Discussion will be held on the invitational basketball tourney to be held later this month.

Rural Scandinavia Man Uninjured in Crash

WAUPACA — A 54-year-old rural Scandinavia man escaped injury at 1:30 p.m. Sunday when his car skidded into a ditch and struck a telephone pole.

Howard I. Johnson, route 1, Scandinavia, was reportedly headed south on County Trunk G when his car skidded on a curve about two miles south of Iola and ran into the ditch.

Solution Sought To Halt Youths Walking Tracks

Village Officials, Railroad Schedules Kimberly Meeting

KIMBERLY — In an effort to stop students from using the railroad right-of way as a route to the high school, officials have scheduled a meeting for 7 p.m. Thursday to seek a solution to the problem.

Students, school officials, village officials and railroad representatives will meet in the high school lecture room to seek a satisfactory solution to the problem.

The session was arranged by the school's program committee, student council and safety council. The committees agreed a program must be instituted to insure student cooperation and provide alternate routes to the school.

Only one street leads to the school and difficulty is encountered when train traffic delays sections of the village walk along the tracks to shorten the trip to and from school. This has been a major concern for the railroad officials and they have offered to cooperate in any manner that will eliminate the practice.

Will Define Problem

Steve Dietzler, student council president, will serve as program chairman. He will define the problem, express the purpose of the meeting and set forth conduct of the session. A representative of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company will express the railway problem.

Daniel Sensiba, faculty representative, will present the problem on behalf of students, the faculty and the administration. William Ebben will outline the student viewpoint after which children and adults near Wisconsin Dells It also maintains homecraft services through a movie, "Trains, Tracks and which articles produced by assembly prior to the holidays.

Dinah Shore to Head 1968 National Easter Seal Campaign Effort

Miss Dinah Shore, well known singer and television personality, has been named 1968 National Easter Seal campaign chairman.

She will officially open the campaign March 1 and continue her activities to April 14 (Easter Sunday). These will include the traditional launching ceremony at the White House and several personal appearances.

Jimmy Durante, permanent honorary chairman, and Mrs. Lynda Bird Johnson Robb will help Miss Shore in heading the campaign.

The annual Easter Seal campaign provides the main support for rehabilitation services to the handicapped. In addition, the Wisconsin Society operates Camp Wawbeek for crippled children and adults near Wisconsin Dells. It also maintains homecraft services through a movie, "Trains, Tracks and which articles produced by assembly prior to the holidays.

'Wheel Tax' Ignored

When the pressure of the municipal lobby in Madison during the recent legislative session grew intense, the legislature responded in a precedent-making fashion as it enacted new laws to give localities more latitude in levying upon their residents for municipal service costs.

Until the lawmakers made it possible to impose a rental tax on hotel and motel rooms, and more important, a so-called "wheel tax" in the form of a supplementary automobile registration fee, the real and personal property tax was for all practical purposes the only significant local tax resource. Existing state laws, for example, forbid localities to levy such broad-based taxes as those on incomes, or inheritances, or sales, although the trend for such municipal tax gathering is growing stronger in other parts of the country.

The auxiliary motor vehicle fee plan, we assumed at the time, would be welcomed by some of our municipal lawmakers around Wisconsin, remembering the assertions of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, among others, about the favorable position of the motor vehicle as property in the tax scale during past years.

Curiously, enough, however, we have not yet heard of a single instance of a municipal option favoring such a "wheel tax". The city administration of the capital city of Madison at first approved the idea, but later retreated and now appears likely to use budget-cutting or more property taxation instead.

U. S. Rice and Asia

The United States is the largest rice exporting nation in the world although the crop is important to a relatively small number of Americans. But rice and rice production and consumption are basic problems of most of Asia. And our own farm policies are influential.

Currently the rice acreage permitted in this country is two million acres. But the demand for rice in Asia goes up every year. Our own exports have climbed 25 per cent in only two years and some Department of Agriculture projections show that the overall demand will be as high as 30 per cent more in five years.

Some Asian countries have been dramatically increasing production. A new strain, developed with American funds in the Philippines, will permit two crops a year rather than one and probably make the Philippines self-sufficient in rice production. Thailand is the second largest exporter and is always increasing production. Taiwan and Japan are large producers and of course Red China supplies quite a bit to many Asian countries, not so much because it grows enough for its own population but to get foreign exchange.

But during Sukarno's reign, rice production in Indonesia was only about 30 per cent of capacity. The war in Vietnam has wiped out sources and crops. Burma's increased production barely meets its increased needs. Although the United States sent Indonesia 100,000 metric tons under the Foods For Peace program this past year, it may be asked for twice that amount in 1968.

Asia's problem is two-fold. First, the population increases continue to skyrocket as health conditions improve. They range from more than 4 per cent a year in the Philippines to almost 3 per cent in Japan.

Democratic Papers Flourish

100 YEARS AGO
Crescent for Jan. 11, 1868.

There is a healthy tone about our Democratic exchanges throughout the State, says the Beaver Dam Argus. This is gratifying to observe.

Many of them (the newspapers) are being enlarged and improved. They are fighting the political battle bravely and deserve to be encouraged. A special effort should be made by every Democrat to increase the circulation of Democratic newspapers. By no other agency can so much good be accomplished.

If we can get the people to read both sides, the revolution now going on in public sentiment will complete, thorough and lasting. To this end, let the circulation of Democratic newspapers be increased. Proper efforts by individual Democrats will accomplish wonders.

the statistics of politics that obtain there and elsewhere, and notably the fact that there are more owners of motor vehicles than there are owners of other property. They assert that it is unfair to tax the residents of the cities on their autos, while leaving untouched the inhabitants of the suburbs who also use city streets and other services. There is a certain plausibility here, but it misses the point, nevertheless. The alternative is to impose yet a heavier burden on the real property owners of the parent city, and to make the disparity in city and suburban property tax rates even worse and more discouraging for city development.

Ideally, the urban centers of Wisconsin should have one public service budget, and one scale of taxation. But we are not likely to attain the ideal soon, if it is attainable in any future time. Wisconsin state registration fees are comparatively low in the country, and if the tax burden they represent is compared with the levy upon any other form of real or personal property, they are so low as to be discriminatory.

Perhaps the alternative in another legislative year will be an increase in the state registration fees, with a provision for the additional revenue to be returned to the localities in the proportion of their local registrations to those of the state as a whole. At least some mayors and aldermen, we must conclude, would prefer such an alternative, if only because the onus of the act would then rest upon other shoulders.

While agricultural methods are constantly improving, they barely meet the needs of the increased number of people.

Secondly, Asian methods are a century behind those of the United States. Planting is done by hand, the rice is harvested almost entirely by hand and threshing done by hand beating. Rice straw is piled in the yards to be used for other purposes. But there is practically no machinery and what one mammoth American thresher would do in an hour, it takes dozens of peasants days to accomplish. Merely supplying the machinery is no answer either to Asia where underemployment, except in Japan, is a factor.

Efforts to supplement the Asian diet with other grains have met with slow success in some areas. Some members of Wisconsin's Trade Mission were interested in the moves toward an improvement of corn production and use particularly in Taiwan and the Philippines. As Asians learn more about the rest of the world, their dietary habits may change somewhat. But rice is still the staple item of their diet and it cannot be changed in a hurry. Even the threat of starvation could not persuade Indians to buy wheat when rice was scarce.

American rice growers apparently are reluctant to increase their yields for fear that later cutbacks will upset their financial situations. Moreover other American farmers, particularly those growing wheat and corn, are annoyed about low prices in their crops and increased production of rice could mean a drop in the price for rice as well. Asian nations must increase their own productivity and sometimes the availability of rice from outside means less than a real effort on their part. However, this is not true of Vietnam where the war prevents any sound agricultural policies.

much as two hours on the bus. To quiet the passengers and at the same time possibly educate them, earphones which tune to seven different tape recordings or a radio station have been installed.

Project officials report that behavior has already improved, and interest in the project is nation-wide. Such interest is justified. While results are not yet compiled, about two-thirds of the earphones are in use at all times. This would seem to indicate that some learning is being done, even though many of the teenage students prefer rock 'n' roll music from a radio station.

Let each man do his whole duty in this matter, and the combined results of individual effort will be such as to astonish even the most sanguine.

In Long Run We'll be Better Off By Keeping Cambodia a Neutral

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
WASHINGTON — While suspicions of the peace hints being dropped around the world by Hanoi run high, everybody agrees that the conversations now opening up between Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the special American mission to Cambodia represent an important opportunity. But to do what?

Kraft

The answer is an opportunity to stop the spread of the Vietnamese war, a chance to build barriers and gain time against the inexorable pressures that have repeatedly forced wider fighting in the past. And in that context, the President's choice — a personal choice, apparently — of this country's Ambassador to India, Chester Bowles, as chief emissary to Cambodia makes perfect sense.

To be sure, there are those who see the opportunity primarily as a means of gaining military advantages. American officials in Saigon have long claimed, and no doubt rightly, that the enemy is using Cambodia as a privileged sanctuary for forays inside Vietnam.

To knock out these sanctuaries there has been pressure from American military and diplomatic authorities in South Vietnam for this country's troops to be accorded the right of hot pursuit across the border into Cambodia. This pressure mounted as serious casualties were sustained in recent battles — notably in Bu Dop and Dak To — which took place only a few miles from the border.

ANOTHER QUAGMIRE

It was against the background of mounting pressure for hot pursuit across Cambodia's borders that Prince Sihanouk expressed willingness to receive a special American mission. And in the course of making that view known, the Prince, in effect, conceded a limited right of hot pursuit to American troops.

Accordingly, in some quarters the temptation is strong to use the Bowles mission merely as a means of validating American military efforts to wipe out the enemy bases in Cambodia. Indeed, the more optimistic of the President's advisers believe that Prince Sihanouk is now ready to abandon his traditionally neutral position, and that the time is ripe to press him into service on the American side.

But experience teaches that the military gains apt to come from spreading the war further are illusory. Maybe American forces would be able to wipe out enemy bases in Cambodia in a quick, clean surgical operation. More likely, they would be drawn even deeper in quagmire, leaving even less possibility for concentrating on the task of achieving security for political development in South Vietnam.

Even if the prospective military gains were larger and more certain, moreover, there are far more urgent diplomatic considerations which weigh against American incursions into Cambodia. For one thing, Prince Sihanouk is a passionate patriot, and his neutralist positions and frequent zigs and zags are means of maintaining national independence against very real threats from Thailand, South Vietnam, and North Vietnam. Insofar as Washington tries to draw him onto the same side as Thailand and South Vietnam, the Prince will most certainly move to preserve his independence by leaning towards the other giant in the area, Communist China.

Finally, even if it were possible, it is not in the American interest to align Sihanouk with this country. On the contrary, the long-run American interest is to maintain a neutral and peaceful Cambodia as a model for the kind of Vietnam that hopefully may emerge from the war.

ICC IS INSTRUMENT

The best way to keep Cambodia neutral and peaceful is to prevent the war from spilling over its frontiers. For that purpose there is one readily available instrument — the three-member International Control Commission, headed by India and including Canada and Poland, which was set up by the Geneva treaty that brought Cambodia as well as Laos and the two Vietnams into their present existence.

Ideally, the right thing to do would be to thicken the ICC presence around the Cambodian frontiers in a way that would discourage use of the Cambodian Territory by the other side. That is certainly what Ambassador Bowles should press for — and there lies the logic of having as emissary the man who, in New Delhi, has been in touch with the country which chairs the commission.

But an effective ICC presence in Cambodia may not be achieved rapidly or easily. The Communist government of Poland would have to go along, and Warsaw may insist on having a mandate from the Geneva Conference, which can only be reconvened on motion of its British and Russian co-chairmen.

In these conditions, forbearance and patience are the attitudes appropriate to this country. A neutral Cambodia is something very much worth waiting for. So much so, indeed, that while waiting, this country might well be readjusting the tactical disposition of American troops in a way that would make them less vulnerable to forays from across the border.

Wisconsin Report

Suburbs Have Power In Legislature Far Beyond Their Norm

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The suburbs of Wisconsin cities fared well in the recent session of the Wisconsin Legislature, a man who ought to know reports with pride to his constituents.

Sen. Allen J. Busby of West Allis is one of the deans of the Legislature after more than a quarter of a century of service. Undoubtedly he has the right to a mild chuckle as he contemplates his record in the most recent session as one of the most vigilant and determined of the protectors of the suburban interest, real or imagined.

Wyngaard

"Scarcely a single measure adversely affecting their revenues or municipal services was enacted into law," the skilled and experienced veteran of the legislative wars between satellite communities and central cities boasts in his roundup account of the legislative record of the year.

Sen. Busby, of course, is writing primarily about the relations of the Milwaukee suburbs, sometimes labeled by indignant Milwaukee city spokesmen as "the iron ring," with their parent city as they were reflected in the record of hostilities in the legislative branch in Madison.

APPLIES TO OTHERS

But the generalization could be made as aptly for some of the other principal cities of the state which sometimes look with envy and irritation upon the financial security and the political punch of the suburban interest in political affairs.

On the face of it, there is no very obvious reason why the Legislature should consciously favor the suburbs over the cities, considering the realignment of state politics and more particularly, the reapportionment of the Legislature. Considered in raw political terms, the larger cities should be able to impose their wishes, if not on general affairs, then surely in a direct confrontation with the strictly suburban interest.

The reasons why they have not been able to do so are several and not easily susceptible to precise measurement as to their relative importance. There is the fact that the suburbs of Milwaukee County, especially, have always had a realistic understanding of their conflict and the stakes involved. They have been willing to spend and to work to express their interests. Thus they have always had a skilled lobbyist in Madison. Today's Robert Heider is one of a line of suburban spokesmen who has toiled with skill and effect against the often clumsy importunings of the big city administration.

WILL MAKE ALLIANCES

There is the fact that Heider's clients when the occasion arises do not hesitate to make alliances where they are necessary, implausible as they may appear to the naked eye. Thus they sometimes combine with the strictly rural governmental lobby, as in the defeat of the property tax assessment reform bill only last month.

More subtle, perhaps, is the fact that the rising Republican Party in Wisconsin in recent times has had an expert awareness of where its poll interests lie in the city-suburban conflict. The Republicans have gained in Milwaukee as the population has been dispersed into the suburban communities, in a pattern that is familiar elsewhere.

The suburbs have also been the beneficiaries of frequently awkward and unconvincing political tactics of the cities, as in the demand of the Alliance of Cities for a radical redistribution of the state's tax shares and aids. While a case can be made for the allegation that the present system is not entirely equitable or reasonable, a revision of the system won't be the panacea that the sponsors seemingly have persuaded themselves it will be.

The resolution of the problem of the cities and their relations with the circumstantially favored suburban districts will be more direct and candid when it comes. It will come as the urban interest continues to grow in power and political response. One reform will ultimately be in the laws governing the annexation of territory by parent cities. Indeed, the financial dilemma of some of the cities would not have reached its currently critical state if more emphasis upon a realistic annexation law had been provided 20 or more years ago.

anybody else — just lazy and remiss. It is somehow easier for me to sit down and write three columns than to write a one-page letter to a friend across the country. It sounds ridiculous coming from a professional writer, but I never know what to say.

I rationalize away this sloth by telling myself that friendship really doesn't depend on "keeping in touch." And for persons like myself, it happens to be true enough: I can have lunch with a friend I haven't seen for two or three years, and the thread is taken up again just where it was left off. Or so I like to think.

It would be forced and out of character for me to dash off little notes to friends all over the country and the globe — just as it is very much in character for my friend to mail me a postcard during his plane touch-down. He is behaving like the mensch he is, and I am behaving like the shmook I am. At least it's an honest relationship.

And your real friends, of course, accept this about you, and don't resent your lack of reciprocity in correspondence. Those who sulk or grieve about it don't understand you very well, and are more impressed with the tangible forms of friendship than its spiritual core. I've got a powerful, pulsating spiritual core — it just never learned how to write or pick up a phone, that's all.

Supreme Court Hears Appeal

Outagamie Battles to Keep UW-GB Site Lawsuit Alive

MADISON — Outagamie County and the state went to another round Monday in their continuing fight over the fate of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay as the State Supreme Court heard oral arguments on a state appeal of a lower court decision keeping the suit alive.

The state, seeking a knock-out punch in the year long bout that has yet to reach trial, has appealed a Dane County Circuit Court decision overruling a state attempt to kill the suit which is aimed at overturning the selection of the Shorewood site on Green Bay's northeast side as the campus of the UW-GB.

Outagamie County, battling to stay in contention and push the state to move the campus to the Larsen Farms location on Green Bay's west side, told the court that despite progress made on the development of the campus planned to open in 1969, the state could save "millions of dollars" by abandoning the contested campus location.

Building Approved

Meanwhile, the State Building Commission, meeting a floor below the court chambers in the state capitol, approved bid letting and construction of the embattled campus at a cost not to exceed $6.1 million during the first two years of construction, without public notice.

The high court, meeting with one of its members refusing to take part in the decision, could support the county and agree with former Circuit Court Judge Edwin Wilkie that the case should be brought to trial.

But it could also agree with the state that Wilkie erred in his decision, and that the county's suit should be blocked because of questions of timing involving the suit and the propriety of the action sought.

The high court's decision could come next month.

Justice Horace Wilkie, brother of the former circuit judge who heard the case and who now serves as state court administrator, left the bench and will not take part in the decision.

Save Millions

Outagamie County's special counsel, Stewart Honeck of Milwaukee, told the court that the state could save millions of dollars of tax funds by abandoning the Shorewood site and agreeing to build the contested campus on the Larsen Farms site.

Bridge and highway construction needed to make the Shorewood site a collegiate center would not be necessary if the westside site is used, he argued.

Honeck argued that the campus chosen by the site selection committee must be set aside because of alleged secrecy in the site selection proceedings in which announced criteria for the campus location were changed without public notice.

"Brown County necessarily must have known about the change in criteria to submit a custom-tailored brochure" during the latter site selection process, he argued.

Honeck argued that the criteria were legally a part of the statutory process involved in creating the new campus, and that the public was entitled to notification of site committee meetings and the protection of a state anti-secrecy law which requires most governmental meetings to be open to the public.

California Precedent

He pointed out that California courts, reading a similar state law, have ruled that decisions taken in illegal-secret sessions are null and void.

The campus location decision should be voided, he contended.

The question does not concern the slight geographical separation of the two campus locations, he argued, but the principle involved.

"It's going to take a good, hard trial to demonstrate the importance of those five or six miles," he told the court.

When Justice Nathan Heffernan asked Honeck what effective relief could be granted considering the advanced state of planning and the release of funds for construction, Honeck pointed out that state officials were proceeding at their own risk after the court test started.

And the state could save millions of dollars by stopping Shorewood site development now, despite the planning losses included, he repeated.

Assistant Atty Gen. Charles Bleck told the high court that the case really revolves around Outagamie County's displeasure with the site selected, not the legality of the selection process.

No Suit

If the Larsen Farms site had been picked — or one in Appleton — there would be no suit, despite the process followed, he charged.

Courts in Wisconsin have long established that they will not question judgments of administrative agencies where legal questions are not validly raised, he pointed out.

"That's what this case is all about," he said.

He told Heffernan that if the court orders the campus development process to stop, the state will have no choice but to name a new site selection procedure and start the entire process over again.

But he argued the court will not have to reach that decision.

The Legislature, after the legal questions were raised, reaffirmed the contested site choice three times during the 1967 session, he told the court.

It passed an executive budget containing funds for the construction of the new campus, and passed two bills governing the county rights to condemn lands and finance the purchase of campus sites, he pointed out.

Endowed Powers

In addition, the site committee simply exercised legislatively endowed powers in recommending to the governor, the building commission and the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education that the Shorewood site be chosen.

Its criteria were not contained in a legally binding act but in an "explanatory letter" which, in other cases, courts have held is not subject to administrative law procedures and public protections.

And no legal obligation regarding public hearings on the criteria existed and any possible change — accepted for the sake of argument before the court — is therefore not illegal, he argued.

No proof of "secret sessions" has yet been given, Bleck pointed out.

And the court suit was brought under the incorrect section of state laws and in violation of a 30 day statute of limitations provision contained in the proper sections dealing with appeals of such legislative decisions, Bleck countered.

"This huge government operation should not come to a screeching halt" because of the minor distance separating the two sites and the discontent of a community, he told the court.

WSU-O Dorms Get Tentative State Approval

Oshkosh May Get 620-Bed Unit for $2,480,000

MADISON — Additional dormitory housing for 2,700 students at eight state universities would be planned to open in the fall of 1969 and would augment available housing at all campuses except at River Falls.

The Oshkosh project calling for 620 additional beds would be the largest in the system, reflecting the fact that it is the most rapidly growing institution in the system.

Other proposals include 320 beds at Eau Claire; 240 at La Crosse; 270 at Platteville; 240 at Stevens Point; 500 at Stout in legislative study committee; and 250 at Whitewater.

Staff members of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education would be financed through federal loans, amortized over a 30 year period.

Bid-Letting Approved For UW-GB's Campus

Building Commission Approves Request for Okay to Follow Through to Construction

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay campus came within one step of construction Monday as the State Building Commission granted authority to proceed with bid-letting and probable construction of the project.

The state agency approved a request that the two new branch campuses of the UW system be authorized to go through construction providing the costs, contained in final bids for the first two year construction period do not exceed $12,820,000.

Of that sum, some $6,101,000 was approved for the UW-GB. The remainder has been allocated for the UW-Parkside, being built in Kenosha County, on a slightly larger scale during its first several years of operation.

Also constructed will be temporary office and storage space — "surge space" — costing $1,472,226. Site and utility work will bring the campus total to $6,101,000.

The only change in the plans approved over those presented to the commission in August involves the change of some gross space designs, providing slightly more mechanical space on the campus, but no additional instructional or office space in the first two building projects.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases — to promptly stop itching, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests by doctors proved that in case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction of the inflamed hemorrhoids took place.

The secret is Preparation H®. There's no other formula like it! Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Third Recent Fight Near Saigon

U.S. Landing in Guerrilla Nest Sparks Battle

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas pounced on a platoon of about 40 U.S. infantrymen as they landed by chance Monday in a Communist bivouac area triggering a 10-hour battle 19 miles south of Saigon.

In the third big clash within 25 miles of Saigon since Saturday, 17 Americans and at least 26 guerrillas were killed and 27 Americans wounded, the U.S. Command said. American infantrymen pursued the guerrillas today but reported no contact.

The American platoon suffered heavy casualties but managed to hold on until a company of reinforcements arrived by helicopter, a spokesman for the U.S. 9th Infantry Division said. Enemy gunners shot down three helicopters as they swooped low to support the outnumbered infantrymen, but all of the choppers came down in secure areas and there were no casualties, the spokesman said.

Helicopter Aid

The battle broke out at 1:25 p.m. after helicopters landed the infantry platoon in a muddy marsh of the Saigon River delta. American commanders had not known it was the bivouac area of an estimated 400 guerrillas.

The guerrillas fought until 11:40 p.m. the U.S. Command said, then faded away through the canals and paddies.

Brig Gen William R. Desobry concluded a tour as senior American adviser in the Mekong Delta today and said the Viet Cong there are "going down steadily. Pacification has taken hold. There has been significant success."

Faded Away

The 9th Division command moved two more companies in at dusk and by midnight units of all three battalions of the division's 3rd Brigade were maneuvering through the marshes and struggling through knee-deep rice paddies.

The guerrillas fought until 11:40 p.m. the U.S. Command said, then faded away through the canals and paddies.

Brig Gen William R. Desobry concluded a tour as senior American adviser in the Mekong Delta today and said the Viet Cong there are "going down steadily. Pacification has taken hold. There has been significant success."

"If we do our job properly," he added, "and we will the military situation in the delta will be much more favorable in one to two years than it is now."

Desobry worked for 2½ years with South Vietnamese troops in the delta and said they have the upper hand now. U.S. of North Vietnam's Communist leaders.

In South Vietnam, both crewmen were killed when a U.S. Air Force RF-4C Phantom crashed 30 miles northwest of Pleiku in the central highlands. The U.S. Command said it was the 220th American fixed-wing plane lost to hostile action in South Vietnam.

Fight in North
At the other end of the country, in the northernmost five-province 1st Corps area, two companies of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry brigade reported killing 38 North Vietnamese troops Monday while suffering three killed and 15 wounded.

The fight was in the Hiep Duc valley south of Da Nang and 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

$190 Billion Budget Likely

ing in the current fiscal year is now scheduled at between $136 and $137 billion with a budget deficit of less than $20 billion without higher income taxes.

Officials are counting, however, on a tax increase in their fiscal year for the new budget and expect the deficit under administration to be "a good bit under $20 billion." Congress last year refused to accept President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge but the House Ways and Means Committee has promised to reconsider it this year.

Eye Target Date
It's still too early for exact figures and even the people putting the budget document in the Cat Bi shape don't know whether they can get it to Congress by the Jan. 29 target date.

Factors are the late 1967 action by Congress on spending cuts and delayed action on some appropriations bills until late January. The new unified budget system complicates matters.

If necessary, the administration can request an extension to submit the budget but officials are still hope to meet the Jan. 29 deadline because of the ambitious target.

McCarthy Getting Little Dove Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — His fellow Vietnam war critics in the Senate apparently are going to give Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy little public support in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said in New York Monday he'll remain on the sidelines in the Minnesota Democrat's primary campaign. And Kennedy said he'll back President Johnson if the chief executive is the party's nominee.

Said Kennedy of McCarthy's campaign: "I expect that President Johnson will be the nominee, but I think this can be a healthy influence, and I am not taking a position during the period of time the primaries are going on."

Favorite Son
Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said in an interview he won't decide until late March whether to become a favorite-son candidate in Indiana in opposition to Johnson's war policies.

Kennedy said he thinks the debate on Vietnam stimulated by McCarthy's candidacy is healthy for the party. He added "it divides us but it does not split us."

Kennedy said he saw no inconsistency in supporting Johnson if he's the nominee and agreeing with McCarthy's criticism of the President's war policies.

"I have to analyze how I can accomplish more good and be the most useful," Kennedy said. He added that "my judgment at the moment is that I don't believe the cause of peace" by backing McCarthy.

Not Ready Alternative

Hartke made clear he doesn't believe McCarthy has come up with an alternative to Johnson's war policy critics have generally challenged.

He said he thinks that as of now only Johnson and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon are among potential candidates.

"Bailey's high-handed and arbitrary attempt to block an open Democratic convention helps more than anything else to set the stage for a third-party movement," McCarthy said.

A Republican war critic, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, shed away from taking sides in the May 28 Oregon primary where Vietnam may be an issue.

Nixon considered a frontrunner for the GOP nomination, has supported Johnson's basic premise that the war is being fought to stem Communist aggression, a position Senate war policy critics have generally challenged.

McCarthy hinted at the possibility of a third-party movement in taking issue with an observation by National Chairman John M. Bailey to the Democratic National Committee in Chicago that "we will return next Au-

He made clear he meant Johnson.

Pope Reportedly Has Mideast Plan

Lebanese Newspaper Says Gaza Would Go to Jordan In Settlement

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol during the latter's visit to Lebanon today Pope Paul VI has proposed a peace plan for the Middle East which would give Jordan the Gaza Strip and put the Arab sector of Jerusalem under official neutral foreign control.

The paper gave this summary of the peace plan it attributed to the Pope:

—Israeli forces in most occupied Arab territory—the west bank of the Jordan River, the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Desert—would withdraw within one year. The United Nations would supervise the withdrawal and administer the areas until it was completed.

—Jordan would take over the west bank and the Gaza Strip, which would be connected by a corridor stretching more than 25 miles through Israel and passing through the Israeli town of Beersheba. Jordanian sources in Amman said both areas would be demilitarized, Al Nahar reported.

Sinai Unmentioned
—Israeli forces would retreat from the Golan Heights in the final phase of withdrawal. There was no mention of who would administer the Egyptian Sinai Desert or the Golan Heights.

—Old Jerusalem, seized from Jordan by Israel, would be run by a military and administrative governor from a neutral country. This point has become controversial. Al Nahar reported, because of minor details.

The newspaper said the Pope's proposals had been carried to King Hussein of Jordan and Israeli officials by a papal envoy, Msgr. Jean Rodan. It said Jarring discussed the plan Monday with Jordanian Prime Minister Bahjat Talhouni, attorney here he wanted his son's plan, Al Nahar quoted sources as saying, was that the Big Four, the Arab states and Israel, commit themselves to solving the Arab refugee problem.

To back up the over-all plan, the Pope proposed that the Big Four issue a "permanent peace declaration," Al Nahar said.

The Japanese editor, Minoru Omori, told newsmen Saturday that young Wiggins said he was a patriotic American and did not want to defect. He quoted the youth as saying: "I would be happy to fight in Hawaii but this is not America's war."

Five professional nitpickers criticize the Javelin.

"Javelin is a world apart from the other ponycars in styling, comfort, space and features...the car turned and cornered as if it were nailed to the road...Nearly every interior dimension is larger than its competitors, and three in the full width back seat is a reality...Performance of our test car was just short of surprising...Too few cars have brakes equal to the optional front disc/rear drum power units on the Javelin..."
—Motor Trend, January, 1968

"BRAND NEW IMAGE BUSTER...transmission responds well to hard active operation and the synchromesh is all but faultless...driving the Javelin is an interesting and satisfying experience...the ability to bring a howl from the rear wheels in any of the lower gears is undeniably exciting...the Javelin has a lot of things going for it..."
—Car Life, December, 1967

"AN EXCITING NEW SPORTSTER...A real racy-looking car...shows up well on the road-handling course...fun to drive..."

particularly liked the action of the optional power steering...The Javelin reacts almost the same at high speed as it does during low-speed maneuvers."
—Popular Science Monthly, September, 1967

"AN AMERICAN DREAM...seat is surprisingly soft...On long series of tight right-and-left hand curves, the quick response, the time it took to go from one steady state to another, was pleasingly impressive...Javelin's brakes were all we could want...optional heavy-duty suspension and wide tread tires really work wonders...you could feel and even control the point at which tire adhesion gave way..."
—Hot Rod Magazine, December, 1967

"FRONT END OF JAVELIN IS MEAN LOOKING...Fresh, clean lines and a luxurious interior...interior appointments very comfortable and well-laid out...visibility forward is excellent...has a lot more legroom than is generally associated with pony cars..."

Live and Sing With Hermits

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 — Channel 5 — One of the fastest half hours of the year blasts through, titled "In Concert: With Herman's Hermits." The setting is the Ohio State Fair where the British mop-tops were appearing before some 40,000 fans. They are seen cavorting on stage, meeting many of the fair's visitors, wandering the typically American midway and getting involved behind-the-scenes, gouging on hot dogs and cotton candy, and of course, singing. The lightning-like 30 minutes is actually composed of 479 scenes, count 'em. The Hermits' vocal offerings include "I'm Henry VIII" and "There's a Kind of a Hush." (C)

7:30-9 — Channels 11-9 — Robert Wagner makes his debut as a series' star in a vehicle called It Takes a Thief. He plays the part of a mid-type Raffles, a swinger whose light-fingered adventures have put him in the pokey. He is paroled by an Intelligence Agency (SIA) which wants to make use of his unique talents. In the opener, his assignment is to relieve a diplomatic courier of the attache case chained to his wrist. Wagner's acting is excellent even to the point of making such an unreal situation believable. The debut is 90-minutes long while subsequent episodes will be an hour. Malachi Throne, a series regular, co-stars with Senta Berger and John Saxon as guests and a host of cameos from such as Raymond Burr, Wally Cox, Joe Louis, James Drury and Kurt Kaszner. (C)

9-10 — Channels 2: 10:30-11:30 Channel 7 — CBS News Correspondents Report: Part II — The Nation is the second in the news organizations' absorbing and often controversial gathering of its correspondents to discuss the past year and the potentials in the year to come. Originating in Washington, the discussion centers on domestic affairs and includes CBS Correspondents Roger Mudd, Dan Rather, Eric Sevareid, Daniel Schorr and Mike Wallace with Walter Cronkite moderating. (C)

6:30-7:30 — Channels 11-9 — Garrison Gorillas benefits greatly from the performance of guest star Julie Harris. (C)

7-8 — Channel 5 — The Jerry Lewis Show is one of the season's most unique with talented actress Anne Baxter guesting with Jack Jones and displaying her singing and dancing talents, and she looks and sounds great. (C)

7:30-8:30 — Channels 2-7 — Roy Rogers and Dale Evans star on The Red Skelton Show and we believe you'll be surprised at how well they handle their comedy skills. Dale is particularly smooth breaking up her romance with Bolivar Shag, nasty over the handsome owner of a Dude Ranch, played by Roy. Another feature of the show: blackouts particularly the hiccup gag and the flyer's advice. An added guest is singer Gilbert Price who leads two production numbers to "The Impossible Dream" and "It Ain't Necessarily So." (C)

8-10 — Channel 5 — Tuesday Night at the Movies insures an audience the perfect box-office combination, Cary Grant's beautiful girl next door every and Doris Day, in a cute little romantic comedy titled "That Touch of Mink." (C)

9-10 — Channels 11-9 — The Invaders shows up in its new time period and displaying more effectively its changing format. Kent Smith, who has become a regular, is more in view as a member of the group that has gathered around Vincent to oppose the extra-terrestrials. (C)

Old Turkish Inn Now New Theater

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Turkish inn built 130 years ago has been converted into a 450-seat theater for stage productions. The management claims it is the first legitimate playhouse opened here since the Roman era.

Shows heretofore have been performed in schools, music halls or out-of-doors. The structure was discovered by city officials several months ago underneath the basement of a building near the central railroad station. Renovation cost $300,000.

Baseball Returns to Musical Field With 'Name of the Game'

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball, regarded as a jinx subject for Broadway entertainment, until the success of "Damn Yankees," is coming to bat again in another musical. Ring Lardner Jr. is doing a book based on two Mark Harris novels, "The Southpaw" and "Bang the Drum Slowly." Music and lyrics are being prepared by Harold Rome. Titled "The Name of the Game," the show is scheduled for production next fall by Max Brown and Edgar Lansbury.

Van Johnson Holds His Own in Age, Popularity

His First Motion Picture Success in Early 1940s; Today at 50 Still Going Strong

Dearie, do you remember for about 10 weeks a year. I love it!" Van doubts that he will remain away from Hollywood so long again. "There's too much doing here. With this part in 'Divorce' I realize that California is my home base."

Johnson was discussing his semi-centennial on the Columbia Pictures set of his latest motion picture, "Divorce American Style." In this recent movie he starred with Dick Van Dyke, Debbie Reynolds, Jason Robards and Jean Simmons.

In the contemporary comedy Van's romantic sequences involve Debbie whom Van first met during his career on the MGM lot, although he never appeared with her.

"Just Like Yesterday" "Like they say," Van commented, "a lot of water's gone over the dam since those days, but it still seems like only yesterday."

Van doesn't exhibit any startling change since the memorable war years circa 1942 when he portrayed the young airman in "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" and "A Guy Named Joe"; and was romancing Lana Turner in the fashionable hostelry in "Weekend at the Waldorf."

Van recalled Debbie as a bouncing cute teenager — "the beautiful girl next door every mother would like to have for a daughter-in-law."

In "Divorce American Style" Debbie graduates from dird to haute couture to portray a chic, sophisticated suburban housewife, mother of two children, who is jet-romanced by Van Johnson, rich desirable bachelor, after she sues screen husband Dick Van Dyke for divorce.

On Night Club Circuit Johnson's role in "Divorce American Style" is his first film in Hollywood in three years. He's been working abroad and doing, among other things, night club tours.

"People forget that I started my career as a Broadway dancer and I can sing well enough to get by. I've developed a little act and I go on the road now."

After an Absence of Three Years from movies, actor Van Johnson proves he's still as popular as ever. His latest vehicle was the star role of the swinging bachelor in "Divorce American Style," in which he romanced Debbie Reynolds, already married to Dick Van Dyke. Johnson plans to center his work in movies.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking birth control pills for a year now and have developed brownish spots and patches on my forehead and cheeks. Above my mouth the skin has turned a brownish yellow color.

If I discontinue the pills will this go away? My doctor says this is a common complaint. Why, then, don't they tell you

This sort of skin discoloration for many years has been known as the "mask of pregnancy," because it appears in some women, particularly brunettes, when they are pregnant. Then the colored patches fade after the baby is born.

The pill works by creating in the human system a condition which is comparable to pregnancy — call it "an imitation pregnancy without any baby," if you wish. Anyway, your hormonal system, when you are taking the pill, resembles the situation as if you were actually pregnant.

That being the case, the "mask of pregnancy" can occur from taking the pill. Frequency of this effect is reported from rarely to 30 per cent. In my experience, the latter figure is high. Some women get these spots and others don't, just as some get them when pregnant and others don't. As to warning a patient about this side effect, one can't tell in advance whether it or any of the other effects will occur.

At any rate, the situation is far from unknown. It frequently disappears when the pill is discontinued. In some cases the spots if pigmentation may only fade a bit.

There are various complaints which may occur with use of the pill, and I am sure that many doctors warn of the more common ones, and more particularly of the ones which might be serious.

This "mask of pregnancy" with the pill has been discussed more than once in this column just in the last year or so.

How much emphasis should be placed on warning about the "mask of pregnancy" is a question which frankly has me stumped. Emphasize it too much, and some women might refuse to use the pill when actually they would never have any trouble anyway. Under-emphasize it, and women who do happen to get the "mask" wonder why they weren't warned more vigorously.

It's my impression that most women, once they have decided they want the pill, will just go ahead and find out whether they will or won't encounter any of the various side effects.

The serious complication is, I think, always subject to strong warning: The pill should not be prescribed if severe venous thrombosis is known — varicose veins or a history of phlebitis (vein inflammation).

With minor complications, it is sufficient to stop the pill if the complications develop.

In the case of the "mask of pregnancy," I would say simply that if it appears, then the pills should be discontinued.

Likewise, if women have had skin changes during a pregnancy, they are likely to have them when taking the pill.

Dear Dr. Molner: Before I go to bed I usually put alcohol on my face because it helps clear up my skin. Many times when I breathe the alcohol it is hard to breathe. Will this affect me in any way?—S.P.

I don't think it can harm you, and the "difficulty in breathing" is probably nervous tension because you are worrying about it.

Note to E.S.: One shot of penicillin 13 years ago, even though you proved hypersensitive to it, would hardly have anything to do with your digestive problems now.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

School Bus Becomes Cozy Instant Church

BRENTWOOD, N.H. (AP) — Nearly 50 hardy worshippers braved Sunday's storm and hazardous roads only to find that the heating system at the Brentwood Baptist Church had failed.

There was plenty of heat, however, in a school bus which a churchgoer had used to bring his family to the church from nearby Exeter. So the undaunted worshippers climbed into the bus, turned it into an impromptu church, and proceeded with the services.

Your Money's Worth Here Are Ways You Can Close Travel Gap

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The passport office at Rockefeller Center was almost as crowded last week as at the peak of the summer tourist season. I had gone to check the responses of these obvious overseas tourists to President Johnson's call for a reduction of $500 million a year in our travel outside the Western hemisphere.

"It does seem funny to be getting a passport today," said one embarrassed man. "But I'm in the shoe business and I must personally see our suppliers in Rome."

"My husband travels to Europe on an average of once a month and I'm not going to sit back here alone," said a middle-aged lady. "A tax on my travel? My husband will pay it."

"My Christmas present from my parents was a summer vacation in Switzerland," said a charming coed. "I don't want to seem unpatriotic but what difference could my little trip make?"

See Difficulty If these are typical attitudes — and I fear that they are — cooling the boom in U.S. tourism overseas will be an enormously difficult task.

Nevertheless, the central fact is that we as tourists are now spending $2 billion more a year abroad than foreign tourists are spending here. This is a deficit of crisis magnitude.

Let's get this point very straight. No matter what we do, we will be criticized. If you visit Santa Fe instead of Seville this summer, the Spanish government will complain that its economy is being unfairly depressed. If you travel on a U.S. airline instead of on a foreign flag carrier, the foreign carrier will insist that unless it earns your dollars, it will not be able to buy U.S. aircraft and everybody will be hurt. There's no easy way out.

But it's a matter of priorities. Assuming that you want to do your part to help save the dollar, here's what you can do: —If you are like the college coed, consider switching your trip to somewhere in North or South America or other approved areas this year.

—If you are scheduled for Europe, try to go on a U.S. airline or steamship and make your reservation through a U.S. agent. This will give your dollars to U.S. firms.

—If you do go abroad, hold down your spending. Don't load up on goods for which there are U.S. counterparts at home.

—If you are a member of a trade organization which holds international meetings, request your officers to schedule the brain hemorrhage last May next convention in the U.S. We now play host to less than 10 per cent of the 800 international conventions attended by U.S. citizens each year. This is a ridiculously small percentage. If we could raise it only to 25 per cent, we could cut our balance of payments deficit a minimum of $600 million a year.

Push 'See U.S.A.'

—If you are like the man in the shoe business, consider bringing your overseas representative to the U.S. for meetings instead of going abroad yourself. The U.S. Travel Service has been trying to promote this through its "Busivisit" program.

—If you are in the travel business, start pushing the "See the U.S.A." and "Discover America" programs as never before. These are fine slogans but so far, there has been scant industry-wide cooperation to back them up and even less coordination between private industry and the government.

If you have friends, relatives or acquaintances overseas, encourage them to visit your country, and remember every $1 spent on travel here becomes as much as $3 as it moves through the economy. Every travel dollar is a new dollar, all "plus."

It will be weeks before we know what tourist restrictions Congress will vote and when they'll take effect. But all on our own, we could help close the travel gap. We could do it just by using the above guides to our travel actions this year.

Former South African President-Elect in Critical Condition

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Theophilus E. Dinges, who was stricken by a brain hemorrhage last May three weeks before he was to be installed as president of South Africa, was reported in critical condition Monday at Groote Schuur Hospital.

Dinges, 69, was a senior cabinet member for many years and twice sought unsuccessfully to be elected prime minister—against Johannes Strijdom in 1954 and against Hendrik Verwoerd in 1958.

Boy Scalds Sister to Death in Kitchen Sink

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 5-week-old girl was scalded to death Friday by her 3-year-old brother, according to police.

Police said William Cosgrove Jr. had managed to lift his sister, Kathleen, from a baby carriage into the kitchen sink, then turned on the hot water and began rubbing her with a wash cloth.

The infant's mother, Mary, father, William, and another daughter, Mary Ellen, 18 months, were taking a nap in the next room.

The sound of running water awakened the mother.
